Oppose Partition Armistice

French-backed Vietnam Stands Against Any Pact Cutting Territory

GENEVA (AP)—The French-backed government of Viet Nam declared today under no circumstances must any Indochina armistice settlement include the partition of Viet Nam territory.

The Viet Nam terms were laid before the nine-member Indochina Conference by Foreign Minister Nguyen Quoc Dinh. They were said by a French spokesman to have the backing of all the non-Communist delegations participating in the talks.

The plan covered both military and political aspects of the armistice. It called for a political settlement based upon free elections under United Nations control.

The main conditions for ending the fighting were:

Any agreement must include sufficient guarantees to insure a "real and durable peace and prevent any new aggression."

The agreement must not lead to a direct or indirect, definitive or provisional, partition of national territory.

It must foresee international control of the execution of the cease-fire conditions.

In opposing any partition, Dinh's proposal ran somewhat contrary to France's plan for setting up armistice zones for the opposing forces. The Vietnamese have expressed the belief the French plan would lave the way open for partition, giving valuable territory to the Communist-led Vietminh.

Dinh also declared Viet Nam's relations with France would be based on declarations foreseeing full independence for his country. He was reported also to be basing his armistice proposals on the independence demands of the sister Indochinese states of Cambodia and Laos, although they were not named in his statement.

The French contend they already have given the Associated States their independence. But many Vietnamese claim it is largely on paper and that they do not enjoy true autonomy, economic or otherwise.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault is going through one of the most trying phases of his long career. He is being pressed on one side by the Communists to accept terms which the Western Powers regard as surrender, and on the other by the United States to stand firm.

In Paris Premier Joseph Laniel's government faced a new vote of confidence tomorrow on the Indochina issue. Observers considered it the most serious threat so far to the government. The shaky French Cabinet conferred far into the night. It reportedly moved to ask U. S. Secretary of State Dulles to clarify his statement yesterday that loss of Indochina would not necessarily bring the loss of all Southeast Asia to the Reds.

Some Cabinet members, reportedly fearful the United States has written off Indochina, were said to be warming to the Vietminh peace plan for Indochina. They were expected to relay this change of heart to Bidault.

The French have proposed (1) a halt in the fighting, (2) withdrawal of all opposing forces in Viet Nam to zones set by the conference, (3) liberation of war prisoners and civilian internees, (4) evacuation of Vietminh forces from Cambodia and Laos and (5) international supervision of the armistice.

MKT Eliminating New Franklin Office Due to Dieselization

PARSONS, Kan. (AP) — Parsons will be headquarters for all Katy railroad operations north of the Red river, effective July 7, H. M. Warden of Dallas, general manager of the line, announced today.

The three present operating districts north of river will be consolidated, he said, and C. T. Williams, present superintendent at Muskogee, Okla., will become superintendent of the new north division with offices here.

Present superintendent's offces at Muskogee and New Franklin, Missouri, will be eliminated under the new setup, Warden said in his announcement made at a civic luncheon in Muskogee.

C. W. Watts, a veteran of many years service, is the present northern division superintendent in Parsons. O. L. Crain holds the similar position at New Franklin.

Warden said completed dieselization of the railroad and other modernized operating methods removed the need for separate operating divisions at Muskogee, Parsons and New Franklin.

Sedalia School Board Annexes Housing Area

Takes In Area Released from R-XII Dist. In Special Election Last Week: Allocates Insurance: Employs 6 Teachers, 5 Resign

The Sedalia Board of Education voted Tuesday night to annex into its school district the housing area immediately west of the city. This is the same area that was voted out of Reorganized District R-XII last Friday.

The board also (1) approved the reallocation of its insurance, (2) accepted the resignations of five teachers and hired six more, (3) approved the Smith-Cotton and Hubbard High Schools, (4) purchased approximately $5,000 worth of school furniture and (5) burned $38,000 of matured school bonds.

The area annexed Tuesday night extends from Main to 16th Street and from State Fair Blvd. west to the Missouri-Pacific spur. It contains about 160 acres of ground.

Although the area is now a part of the Sedalia school district, it is not a part of the city. Its residents will be subject to the Sedalia school tax rate of $1.98 instead of the District R-XII rate of 85 cents, but they will not have to pay any city tax. Residents in that area will not have to pay tuition anymore to send their children to Sedalia schools.

The action was taken Tuesday night after a letter from Alfred Schreiner, secretary of the R-XII board of directors, was read to the Sedalia board. It contained notice that the R-XII election to release the area had carried, and it petitioned the Sedalia board to accept the territory. The Sedalia board voted unanimously to accept it.

The action comes in time to include the area in this year's enumeration of children between the ages of 6 and 20 for the purpose of securing state aid.

A total of $372,100 in insurance expiring May 25, was allocated during the past month by a committee of board members William F. Brown and Forrest Benner, and their work was approved unanimously by the board Tuesday night. The school system now has a total of $1,713,200 in insurance. Of this, $1,578,100 is on buildings, $62,000 on contents and $73,100 in "equivalents."

The resignations of five teachers were accepted. They are Mrs. Hazel Brown, grade 6 at Washington, Mrs. Elizabeth Bronson, grade 4 at Mark Twain, Miss Jo Ann Hyatt, elementary teacher elected in April and who did not sign her contract, Mrs. Amber Maxwell, art teacher at Smith-Cotton and Richard Brown, industrial arts instructor at Smith-Cotton.

Six teachers were hired: Mrs. Merle Repper, elementary, now teaching at Tipton; Mrs. Edna F. Wichter, elementary, Sedalia, formerly at McVey School; Mrs. Ruth Painter, elementary, substitute at Washington; Miss Elizabeth Gray, librarian at Smith-Cotton, who is returning from Richland, Wash.; Mrs. Marguerite Hansen, elementary art, now teaching at Otterville; and Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, elementary, now in California.

Supt. Heber Hunt told the board that there remain only three vacancies.

The bonds burned Tuesday night were those that were paid Feb. 1.

The board agreed to hold a special meeting Tuesday night, May 18, to receive bids on three rooms proposed for Horace Mann School. At the same time it will consider bids on new roofs at Jefferson and Mark Twain and will decide the major building improvements to be made this summer.

Bids on items such as music instruments, janitorial and instructional supplies, art supplies, physical education supplies, printing, home economics and industrial arts supplies will be considered at the June meeting of the board.

The board voted to secure bids for the school audit for the current year. It also approved the purchase of science supplies worth about $300 for Smith-Cotton and Hubbard High Schools.

Supt. Hunt informed the board that the Sedalia school system has again been classified AAA by the State Department of Education for the current year.

Woman Covers Indochina War By Parachute

Petite French Lady Was Once French Resistance Leader

SAIGON (AP)—At 30, petite, brown-haired Elizabeth (Brigitte) Friang has lived many lives.

When she was 20 she won the French Legion of Honor, the country's top decoration, for heroic work as an underground resistance leader.

Today she is a newspaperwoman who disdains ordinary means of covering a war. She doesn't ride, walk or sail into battle. She jumps in.

She has been one of the best known women in Indochina, but few of the thousands of French Union and Vietnamese troops at Dien Bien Phu and elsewhere knew her real name. To them she was simply "Madame Parachute."

In May 1952 she realized a girlhood dream. She made her first parachute jump. It was to cover a paratrooper operation at Xuyen Moc, on the border of Annam and Cambodia. Since then, pencil and pad in her hip pocket, she has jumped 10 times. Six of them were during military operations, including Dien Bien Phu.

Now she's about to realize another childhood dream. She's off to visit the United States, where she is due in San Francisco late this week.

Americans who meet her will get a surprise. Despite the heroism which runs through most of her young life, she is no tomboy. She is as feminine as a Jacques Fath model. She weighs barely 98 pounds, and her pert little nose wrinkles with amusement when she recalls her hundred and one adventures.

Brigitte is the name she got while serving in the underground in France. She was barely past 15 when the Germans conquered her country. But even then, her rebellious nature wouldn't stay still in face of the enemy. She was only 17 when the Germans arrested her the first time and jailed her for three days. Her crime was taking part in a student parade on Armistice Day, 1941, honoring France's dead at the Arch of Triumph.

TPA Banquet At State Meet Friday Night

The 64th annual state convention of the Missouri division of the Travelers Protective Association will open Friday morning in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell Hotel. Friday evening at 6:30 a banquet will be held at the Smith-Cotton cafeteria.

The program will open with organ music by Mrs. Edythe Ross. The Rev. David M. Funk, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, will give the invocation.

Kenneth U. Love will be master of ceremonies. State director of the Missouri division of the TPA, N. R. Garrett, Columbia, will give a talk on the organization's membership program.

Two Sedalians, E. M. Stafford Sr. and George C. Hoffman will be recognized for thei. 50 years membership in an address by Myron D. Piersol, St. Louis, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri division.

Entertainment will then be offered by the music department of Smith-Cotton High School, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader. Damon Hieronymus' "Hill Willies," square dance group, will bring the program to a finale.

Bombers Plaster Rebels

French Manned B-26s Blasting Vietminh Inside Red River Delta Territory

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Squadrons of French-manned B26 bombers plastered the Vietminh rebels today inside the Red River Delta, which France has put on the top danger list in the Indochina war.

The planes smashed bases of the Communist-led rebels in the limestone hills of the southern areas of the Delta—keystone of the French held bastion around Hanoi and the port of Haiphong.

Infiltrating rebels continued harassing action, the French reported, blowing up two freight and passenger trains about eight miles east of this tense north Indochina capital. The French said the railroad was restored to operation soon afterward.

Officials claimed 49 Vietminh were killed and 26 captured today in scattered mop up actions around the Delta.

These activities followed a warning by a top French commander that his forces may need foreign help if the Vietminh unleash all their power against the Hanoi defense perimeter.

Gen. Pierre Louis Bodet, chief aide to the French commander in chief in Indochina, Gen. Henri Navarre, told a news conference last night:

"The situation in the delta is serious but far from hopeless or desperate. We may need help from outside if the Vietminh attack the delta with all their means and with their forces from Dien Bien Phu."

Bodet specified no country in his mention of additional foreign aid. The United States reportedly refused a French request for Air Force help to Dien Bien Phu after Britain's government said it could not consider joint military intervention until the outcome of the Geneva conference was known.

Bodet's description of the situation in the delta as "serious" was the first such estimate from any member of the French high command in Indochina.

Seeking to exploit their victory last week at Dien Bien Phu, the rebels throughout the rich rice lands stepped up their attacks on thinly manned French and Vietnamese defense posts.

The French retaliated with massive bombing assaults yesterday on key centers of Vietminh activity in the region. They reported 50 bombers wiped out three villages in the southeast part of the delta. From these, the French claimed, the rebels had staged big raids on the highway and railway linking Hanoi and Haiphong.

Though the Vietminh have an estimated 70,000 regular, regional and guerrilla forces throughout the delta, their activity so far was still confined to the usual scattered attacks on French communications and isolated posts.

As yet there was no sign of any "human sea" attacks such as overwhelmed Dien Bien Phu, 175 miles west of Hanoi.

Bodet said he did not think the Vietminh could hurl any of their forces from Dien Bien Phu against the delta sooner than within six to eight weeks. Rebel losses in the siege of the bastion have been estimated as high as 35,000 killed and wounded.

Despite the fall of Dien Bien Phu last week, "France is making fresh efforts and is continuing the war," Bodet declared. He revealed that U. S. Air Force Globemasters are airlifting more French reinforcements "to reconstitute the battle corps" hard hit by losses at the fallen fortress.

The French also went ahead with preparations to airlift the approximately 1,300 wounded from Dien Bien Phu. The French high command said its representatives were expected to fly to Dien Bien Phu by helicopter tomorrow to arrange with the Vietminh for the evacuation.

Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap announced by radio last night his approval of the casualty removal, agreed to by French and Communist representatives at the Geneva conference. Giap told the French command to send its men to Dien Bien Phu by red-cross-marked helicopters, and to advise their time of arrival a day in advance.

High School Student Beats Girl Fatally

Tells Unemotional Story to Police, Gives No Motive

DETROIT (AP — An unemotional high school student told police today he fatally beat and slashed a 4-year-old girl, but didn't know why he did it.

Marion Jo Zobrovitz was found yesterday by three playmates in a garage behind her home, her body torn and bleeding. She died in a hospital after doctors fought 4½ hours to save her.

Police Lt. Edward Jocques said 15-year-old Terrence De Moss told him he had struck the girl with a 2-by-4 beam, the slashed her.

Jocques said the boy gave no reason for the attack.

De Moss is a juvenile under Michigan law and cannot be charged with a major crime in Criminal Court unless Probate Court waives its jurisdiction.

Mrs. Doris De Moss, his mother, told police that she knew her son was the murderer, but police arrived before she could call them.

In a formal statement to police, she said that Terry was fascinated by a newspaper account of the crime. She said that he left for school yesterday morning and came home about 2:30 p.m.

She told police that he went to the bathroom and then to the kitchen, where he tried to clean brown spots off his grey flannel trousers. He told her that a girl had spilled something at school and he had gotten splashed.

The Smith-Cotton Music Dept. Spring Concert Thursday Nite

The Smith-Cotton High School music department will present the annual spring concert in the school auditorium Thursday at 8 p. m. This will be the final concert of the year and will feature the orchestra, mixed chorus and band.

The orchestra will appear first on the program and will play a variety of classic numbers. Ann Marquess will play "The Spinning Wheel", accompanied by the orchestra. Chester O'Bannon will sing "On the Road to Mandalay."

The mixed chorus, which includes the junior and senior boys and girls glee clubs, will present an assortment of vocal selections.

The band will appear last on the program and will play overtures and several well-known marches. The feature of the band's presentation will be the playing of "Tubby The Tuba," a novelty number, with the narrative part by Jack Isgur. The Smith-Cotton twirlers will appear with the playing of the final march.

The evening's program includes: Orchestra — "Audante", Tschaikowski; "Spinning Wheel", Ann Marquess, soloist; "On the Road to Mandalay", Speaks, Chester O'Bannon, soloist; "Manx Overture", Wood.

Mixed Chorus, accompanied by Ann Marquess — "Joobalai", arr. by Ades; "Vava Con Dios" arr. Ades; "Onward, Ye People", Sibelius.

Band — "La Sarella March", Cleve; "Italian in Algiers", Rossini; "Manhattan Beach March", Sousa; "Tubby, the Tuba", Kleinsinger; "Student Prince", Romberg; "Bombasto", Farrar.

All of the musical groups will be under the directorship of Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, music instructor at Smith-Cotton High School.

The general public, as well as the parents and relatives of Smith-Cotton musicians, is urged to be in attendance at the final presentation.

'Reprehensible', Ike Declares, That Secret Letter Was Supplied

WASHINGTON (AP — President Eisenhower today called it reprehensible for any Army Intelligence officer to supply confidential FBI data without authorization. He was asked specifically about an incident related by Sen. McCarthy, but Eisenhower said he would only discuss the principle involved.

The President also told his news conference, in a comment on the international scene, that the free world ought not to write off Indochina.

At the outset of the conference, a reporter told the President that Sen. McCarthy had testified last week that an Army intelligence officer supplied him with classified FBI material.

The newsman went on to say that Atty. Gen. Brownell later said the material should not be made public. Eisenhower then was asked to comment on the "propriety" of the Army intelligence officer's delivery of such data to McCarthy without authorization.

The President recalled that he said at his news conference last week he was thinking of taking a vacation from replies to questions dealing with McCarthy.

He added he was not going to comment on the aspect of the question as it related to McCarthy.

The President then went on to discuss the principle of the situation raised by the reporter's question.

He said that in a case where an individual officer gives away classified information, it is so reprehensible.

Eisenhower said that was especially so in the case of security material which must be kept secret.

The President said that when enlisted men enter the armed forces they take an oath to obey the regulations ad their superiors.

Eisenhower then asked whether we are to assume that an enlisted man can adopt one kind of loyalty and an officer another kind.

Answering his own question, the President called that perfectly ridiculous.

He added that whenever we get to that kind of a situation in the armed services, we had better disband them.

Later in the news conference, the President said in reply to another question he did not know whether any investigation was being made to try to locate the intelligence officer who McCarthy said provided him with the FBI data. The Army has said it is conducting such an investigation.

Eisenhower, in his discussion today, did not mention McCarthy by name.

The President also discussed these other matters:

Bipartisan Foreign Policy — Eisenhower recalled that in the past he has ridiculed the idea that he would go along with charges by some Republicans that the Democratic party is the party of traitors.

He made that remark in response to a request for comment on former President Truman's statement that achievement of a true bipartisan foreign policy is impossible unless the President first disavows those who call the Democrats traitors. Truman had applied the statement to a series of speeches in which McCarthy had called the Roosevelt and Truman administrations "20 years of treason."

He first said, in replying to the request for comment on what Truman said, that he was not going to answer anyone who found it proper to criticize his actions. The President then went on, however, to say he feels he has made it clear that he does not endorse charges of treason from within the Republican ranks.

Eisenhower also said that so far as possible he always has striven to keep foreign policy on a bipartisan basis.

Security and Loyalty Investigations—Eisenhower said he is confident that in the long run the Defense Department and the armed services themselves are fully capable of conducting any necessary investigations regarding loyalty and security.

There is an old saying, the President said, that what is not inspected deteriorates. For that reason, he said, he believes it is necessary to exercise constant vigilance. Then he added he believes that in the long run the armed services are entirely capable of dealing with the situation.

Unemployment—Responding to a question whether the administration has any plan to deal with unemployment in industry, the President replied with a trace of irritation that there is continuous study of that matter. He said there never is any relaxation in administration efforts to be prepared to deal with what may turn up in the future with respect to the business situation.

So far as human beings can be prepared to deal with it, he said, his administration constantly is trying to be prepared.

Internal Revenue Chief—Eisenhower said Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey never has expressed to him the slightest dissatisfaction over the job being done by T. Coleman Andrews as commissioner.

Eisenhower added that on the basis of his own personal contacts with Andrews, he believes Andrews is doing a grand job.

Voting Age—The President said the reaction he has received to his proposal that the voting age be lowered from 21 to 18 has been favorable. He added, however, he is not going to insist that 18 is the best age for eligibility. A better age, he went on, might be 19.

Bill Couhig Will Represent District In Speech Contest

Bill Couhig, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Couhig, 900 South Quincy, will represent this district at the Tenth District oratorical contest at Hutchinson, Kans., Thursday, May 13.

Couhig gave a talk on "The Power of Optimism" to the Optimist Club Tuesday at the Bothwell Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Couhig were guests of Optimist President, Harold Barrick.

Kenny Hamilton, 1300 South Ohio, one of four boys who have been taking lessons from J. W. Watts on fly fishing, was the guest of Mr. Watts. Hamilton gave a talk on fly fishing.

Dr. K. L. Holdren, president-elect for 1955, will attend the convention of the Tenth District at Hutchinson.

Prizes will be presented the winner of the contest.

GERALD A. SIRON OF SEDALIA receiving notice of award of the class of 1942 memorial scholarship at the School of Mines and Metallurgy, Rolla, from Noel Hubbard, registrar and chairman of the general scholarship committee.

Siron Again Gets Scholarship Given to Honor a Sedalian

ROLLA, Mo., — Gerald A. Siron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude G. Siron, 1400 South Warren, Sedalia, has been announced as the winner of the class of 1942 memorial scholarship at the School of Mines and Metallurgy for a second year.

Gerald was awarded the scholarship last year on graduation from Smith-Cotton High School in Sedalia and maintained an outstanding record during his freshman year at the School of Mines. Dean Curtis L. Wilson at the recent honors convocation at the School of Mines had Noel Hubbard, registrar and chairman of the general scholarship committee, announce the award to Gerald. The scholarship last year carried a stipend of $500 and will carry approximately the same amount during the school year 1954-55.

The movement looking toward the establishment of the scholarship was started by the class of 1942 in memory of Captain John W. Rayl, a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, son of Mrs. Letha Rayl, who was at that time living at 1005 South Missouri in Sedalia. Capt. Rayl graduated with honors from the School of Mines in 1942. He entered the military service and was killed in France on Aug. 18, 1944. He had served as president of the class of 1942 and when his classmates heard of his death, a movement was started to establish a scholarship in his honor. Others lost their lives in the conflict, until at the end of the war a total of seven boys from the class of 1942 had either been killed or were missing in action as a result of the World War II.

Gerald is studying mechanical engineering at the School of Mines and Metallurgy and has been an honor student during the time he has been in school here.

Shaw Elected Third Ward Councilman

Democrat Candidate Carries All Five Precincts of Ward

Jimmy D. Shaw, 1603 East Seventh, Democrat, was elected as the Third Ward Councilman to fill the unexpired term of Arthur Schwarz who resigned several weeks ago. Shaw defeated George B. James, 810 East Sixth, 746 to 355 votes, a majority of 391.

Shaw carried all five precincts of the ward, first precinct being 248 to 161; second precinct, 98 to 69; third precinct, 171 to 67; fourth precinct 101 to 66; and fifth precinct 128 to 52.

Shaw will take office at the next regular meeting of the City Council which will be on Monday night, May 17.

The election of Shaw gives Mayor Julian H. Bagby, Democrat, a complete eight man Democratic council.

The new Councilman will serve one year until the election in April, 1955, at which time the Third Ward will have to elect a Councilman to fill a regular two-year term.

Dr. Ira White is the other Councilman from the Third Ward.

Charge 'Abuse' By Cohn

Army Counselor Adams Reports Special Treatment Was Requested

WASHINGTON (AP—Army counselor John G. Adams testified today he took more "abuse" from Roy M. Cohn than anyone in his experience as a Pentagon official in connection with efforts by Cohn to win special treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine.

Adams was on the witness stand for all the morning session of the 15th day of Senate subcommittee hearings into the bristling dispute between military officials on the one hand and Sen. McCarthy and his aides on the other.

This dispute revolves about the contention by the Army that the senator and his aides used improper pressures in an effort to get favored treatment for Schine, former McCarthy subcommittee consultant and son of a wealthy New York City family, who was drafted.

Cohn is chief counsel for the McCarthy subcommittee.

McCarthy and his aides countercharge that the Army sought to use Schine as a "hostage" in an effort to blackmail the subcommittee into dropping its search for Communists in the Army.

Adams, speaking in soft, precise tones, named Cohn as the chief source of pressure for Schine.

He testified that McCarthy himself once said Schine was "not much good" to the subcommittee, and that he (McCarthy) wanted Schine drafted. But Adams said McCarthy asked him not to relate the conversation to Cohn.

Adams related a series of telephone calls and other efforts which he said Cohn made to get special treatment for Schine. Then he said:

"The abuse I took with reference to Schine, if you pile together all the abuse I have taken from employes and members of Congress over the past five years, it would not compare with that I took in this situation."

"Abuse from whom?" asked Ray H. Jenkins, the subcommittee's special counsel.

"Mr. Cohn," Adams replied.

Adams recounted a visit by McCarthy and Cohn and military officials to the Army radar laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N., on Oct. 20, when Cohn was excluded from several secret installations.

He said Cohn was "extremely upset" over this and declared "This is war."

Adams took over the witness chair from Secretary of the Army Stevens in the presentation of the Army's case. Stevens was excused yesterday because of illness. Though Stevens said he felt fine, Army counsel reporetd the secretary was under treatment for a virus infection.

Stevens was not at the hearing today, but Joseph N. Welch, Army counsel, said Stevens was feeling "reasonably well."

Leading up to his story of the Monmouth incident, Adams testified:

1. He was under instructions from Secretary Stevens to cooperate "completely and wholeheartedly" with the McCarthy subcommittee's investigation of alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth. The McCarthy camp contends Secretary Stevens gave Adams the assignment of trying to halt the Monmouth inquiry.

2. McCarthy once told him G.

R. Humphrey Dies In Auto. Bus Collision

Former Sedalian Killed on Bridge At Kansas City

Richard Humphrey, 29, former Sedalian and veteran of World War II, was instantly killed in an automobile and Greyhound bus collision on Missouri River bridge at Kansas City Wednesday morning.

Another person in the car, Dorothy Goudeau, also met death and a third occupant, Raymond Miller, 17, Kansas City, Kan., suffered lacerations. The bus was traveling from Omaha to Kansas City and its driver, Bill DeRoin, Ralston, Nebr., suffered bruises.

Mr. Humphrey was a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Humphrey, 512 East Fifth, and was born in Sedalia July 4, 1925. On Oct. 29, 1946 he was married to Miss Dorothy Ruhl in Sedalia.

In his war service he was in the Pacific theatre with the Navy for 2½ years. His home was at 2122 Pendleton, Kansas City, and he was employed by a metal company, having moved from St. Louis to Kansas City last August. He left Sedalia for St. Louis about six years ago.

The accident in which he met death was about 20 feet from the spot where seven persons died in a crash about a year ago.

Surviving are: his wife; a daughter, Cheryl, three-months-old; his parents; four brothers and four sisters, Mrs. Grace Berry, Raymond H. and John Humphrey and Mrs. Marjorie DeLapp, Sedalia; Frank and George Humphrey, Mrs. Joan Young, Kansas City and Mrs. Margaret Kellner, Sedalia; his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hammerly, Florence. A sister preceded him in death.

The body was brought to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel in the McLaughlin funeral coach and the services will be held there at 2 p. m. Friday.

School Bonds Issue Proposal Defeated

With an unusually light vote the proposed bond issue of $120,000 for a new elementary school building at La Monte in consolidated district R-4 was defeated in a special election Tuesday.

The proposal was for the state to furnish an additional $18,000 should it have carried.

Crossroads Comment

School bus. State law. Stop while loading or unloading!

To motorists following the bus that means just exactly what it reads.

But responsibility for adhering to safety measures should be borne by all drivers alike, including school bus operators. The latter might well have their vehicles safety-checked, as part of the Safety Road, Liberty Park, sponsored by Pettis County 4-H members through Friday this week.

Motorists following school vehicles will be obliged if drivers of the busses see to it that their big red stop lights are in proper working order. One driver may not know if but his stop lights were not working properly Monday morning.

A few more speed limit signs along Broadway might be fair shakes for through traffic on Broadway,—the reflector kind that show up at night, too. Motorists passing through Sedalia would slow down a bit if they saw more signs. No use to make Broadway a speed trap for the unsuspecting. One speed warning sign or two at each end of the highways may be considered by some as sufficient warning, but it isn't. You don't slow down yourself until you pass enough signs that indicate the town means business about speeding.

Another good reason why we prefer to live out here in Central Missouri, instead of a metropolitan area: — Hotels in New York have been asked to serve water with meals only when the customers ask for it. We've never been that low down in Sedalia.

All persons, as they grow less prosperous, grow more suspicious, according to a Roman poet. Did he mean less prosperous in material possessions or less prosperous in faith and understanding?

Laniel Faces Grave Threat On Thursday

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel's government today faced the gravest threat of its 11-month career. It marshaled support to meet its second vote of confidence in a week, a ballot in the National Assembly tomorrow on Laniel's refusal to set a date for debate on Indochina.

Outcome of the vote was uncertain.

Laniel won a confidence vote on the same issue of debate-timing last Thursday 311-262. But the fall of Dien Bien Phu the following day touched off widespread criticism that the government had not done enough to help the defenders of the Indochinese fortress.

It will be much more difficult for Laniel to have his way this time. Many of the deputies who met last night had the complaints of their constituents about Dien Bien Phu's fall ringing in their ears.

Many feared that if they voted confidence in Laniel again, the people back home would interpret it as approval of the Dien Bien Phu situation.

Other considerations acted in Laniel's favor. A defeat for the government would force it to resign. Probably it also would end the Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina by removing France as an effective participant. Laniel hoped the prospect of a Cabinet crisis at such a critical time would rally the deputies to him.

As an alternative to immediate debate on the Indochina setback, Laniel agreed last night to establishment of a special Assembly committee to study all aspects of the Indochinese war. He appealed for postponement of debate until after the group completed its report.

After numerous deputies rejected this compromise, Laniel called an emergency Cabinet meeting and got authorization for the vote of confidence.

Says Long Tenure Due To Political Silence

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—L. Thomas Parker Sr., an enthusiastic Democrat, completed his 61st year of employment today for a firm bossed by Fred P. Adkins, an equally enthusiastic Republican.

Parker, 73, is general superintendent of the E. S. Adkins Co., a Salisbury lumber firm. He has been with the firm two years longer than Adkins. He said the secret of the long and successful association is:

"We always talk business and not politics on the job."

Sedalian In 'Mysterious Orient'—

Chivalry Differs and U.S. Way Of Pitching Woo Is 'Disgusting'

By Gene Williams, U. S. Navy
A Former Member of the Democrat's News Staff

The "Mysterious Orient" is becoming less mysterious by the year as western ways replace age old Asiatic customs. However, many of of their strange habits handed down from the past remain in every day use.

Women in this part of the world generally fail to find most of the courtesies that are extended to women by the average American gentleman. Chivalry, in the American sense, is practically anti-Oriental.

There is a much told yarn of an American tourist who visited Korea prior to the war there. He noticed an aged couple and a water buffalo proceeding along the edge of a stream, but it seemed a strange sight to the tourist. The man was riding while the wife walked three paces behind with a long pole, urging along the lazy moving animal.

Later he was told that what he had seen was merely a custom observed throughout the Orient. The man goes first.

After the truce this American again went to Korea and saw the same couple and water buffalo. The man still enjoyed the leisure life as they traveled over the rugged terrain, but the woman walked about twenty paces ahead, using the long pole to poke every step of the beaten path. This startling change was more than the curious stranger could bear. He thought, "Perhaps these women are making their first step towards equal rights!"

He approached the natives and explained the situation as he had seen it a few years previous, compared to the present, and asked if there had been a change of "custom". In broken English the old Korean gentleman wily replied, "No, we have had war since. She now walks ahead to find mine fields."

Of course women are not treated as cruelly as that story indicates, but their plight is a little startling. She seldom finds an open door awaiting her passage and it is a rare sight when a man gives up his chair to a woman on a public conveyance. It is also popular belief among the Japanese that the woman's place is in the home.

Through habit and intentions to be friendly, U. S. servicemen usually display such common courtesies of American to the Japanese. Although the GI's presence in Japan has been since 1945 they frequently receive a puzzled smile and gracious bow for their thoughtfulness.

The American method of pitching woo would be chaos if kissing was taboo as it has been for centuries in Japan. Until recent years even the kissing scenes of U. S.-made movies were eliminated from the film. (That practice would leave little to view of some pictures.) However, this ban was recently lifted, mainly because the GI has practically imposed this Western culture by actual practice. These love scenes are received with mixed emotion. Older people seem to almost gasp, the younger ones usually giggle, and others turn their heads refusing to watch "such a disgusting exhibition".

A Nipton Times columnist, much like a combination "Hedda Parsons", wrote in detail the technique employed by one of Japan's leading female movie stars, who was forced to give some Romeo a big smooch. Although this star thought the act was absolutely repulsive, her part called for a kiss. To endure such an unpleasant assignment a small piece of gauze was placed over her lips. She still complained, saying it was the most horrible and morbid experience she had ever had — and hoped never to do it again. Perhaps that's one reason the Orient is considered "mysterious".

The French once sent what was considered a sculptor's masterpiece to Japan for display, but Japanese police confiscated the work of art before it was ever placed before the public. The French were disturbed. They thought the possible reason was because the figures were unclothed. As it turned out, that was acceptable with the Japanese, but the only way the public would see the statue would be to cover the heads of the figures — who were embraced in a "healthy kiss". The fondest embrace ever seen of Japanese is a hug, and that's seldom seen in public.

The most noticeable Western style to gain the liking of the Japanese seems to be clothing. Older citizens continue to wear the old garb, such as the kimono, but the younger generation goes for our clothing.

The difference of Japanese customs and tastes with our own are amusing and add to the pleasure of the visit.

The Hawaiian Islands produce one fourth of all the sugar produced under the American flag.

Mac-Army Digest . . .

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is an at-a-glance summary of the Senate Investigations subcommittee's public inquiry into the row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and high Pentagon officials:

The basic charges—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams have accused McCarthy and two subcommittee aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of using improper pressures to win favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine. Schine was a subcommittee consultant before being drafted last November.

McCarthy's side in turn has accused Stevens and Adams of using Schine as a "hostage" in attempting to get McCarthy to halt or divert an investigation of alleged subversives in the Army, particularly at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. They named also H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense.

Pertinent past testimony—Stevens has denied trying to halt McCarthy's probe, but said the senator's methods subjected the Army to "hammering headlines" giving an untrue picture of alleged subversion. He has said the FBI has praised the cooperation it has received from the Army. Stevens said McCarthy's aides subjected him to threats of an "exceedingly serious" nature in efforts to win favored treatment for Schine, and that he felt the implication was that the more he did for Schine, the easier McCarthy would be on the Army.

McCarthy, who has testified under oath thus far on only one side issue, has said during his questioning that the answer to charges of pressure in Schine's behalf is that Schine is still a private. And he says the Army delayed acting against suspected subversives at Ft. Monmouth in the face of FBI warnings about some employes.

Yesterday's highlights — There was no testimony bearing on the inquiry, only lengthy discussion on possible ways to expedite proceedings.

The subcommittee voted down—four Republicans against and three Democrats for—a motion by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) to continue the hearings in their present form, but to set a time limit on cross-examination of witnesses.

On another 4-3 vote, the subcommittee rejected a move by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) to end the public televised hearings after testimony had been taken from Stevens and McCarthy. A record of testimony taken at closed sessions would have been given out to newsmen.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who is presiding, voted with the three Democrats against Dirksen's motion after Stevens, excused from the hearing because of illness, sent word he thought it would "not result in fairness."

The hearings started April 22. Today's scheduled hearing is the 15th daily session.

Senate Okays Addition To Allegiance Pledge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill adding the words "under God" to the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The revised pledge would read: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Green Ridge Women Judge Flower Show Held at Camdenton

Mrs. Wilford Acker, Mrs. G. D. Rayburn and Mrs. J. M. Palmer drove to Camdenton Friday morning, May 7, where they were judges for the Flower Show sponsored by the Camdenton Garden Club, held at the grade school building.

Mr. Acker accompanied them to Camdenton and spent the day fishing.

The residents of Camdenton were holding a four day Dogwood Festival, an annual event always held when the dogwood is in bloom.

This year, according to the residents, very few of the dogwood bloomed. Last year's drought almost killed the wild dogwood, but most of the trees leafed out, but did not bloom this spring. Only a few trees had a few scattering flowers. A similar incident happened in 1934 and 1937, due to the droughts those years.

The program for the four days was scheduled with many interesting features for entertainment among them a parade for each day except Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Acker, Mrs. Rayburn and Mrs. Palmer enjoyed the parade Friday. There were a number of floats, several school bands and the Camdenton Saddle Club rode in the parade.

El Progressio Club Learns of Girls' Town

The May meeting of El Progressio Club of Windsor was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. Scott Sappington with Mrs. Walton Elbert as assisting hostess.

Mrs. Earl Goff gave the program on "Girls' Town for Missouri", which is a project of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs.

Following the program, refreshments were served by the hostesses to the 16 members present.

La Monte Garden Club Program by Mrs. Strole

Mrs. Ruth Price was hostess to the LaMonte Garden Club May 4 at her home.

The president, Mrs. Clyde Swope, presided during the business meeting. Mrs. E. J. Wheeler, program leader, introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. P. L. Strole, Sedalia, whose subject was, "Color in the Garden."

Mrs. Strole named varieties of bulbs, shrubs and seeds that one should plant for the earliest blossoms of spring and followed by naming other plantings, so that one's flower garden may be a continuous mass of colorful blossoms from early spring until the winter freeze.

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, Sedalia, was a guest of the club.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Owen Russell assisted her mother in serving.

Farmer Kills 2 Men, Then Shoots Self

ROGERS, Ark. (AP)—Police, chasing a trigger-happy farmer for the slaying of two men, caught up with him yesterday before he could carry out his announced intention of shooting still another.

When cornered, the crazed gunman shot himself to death.

Sheriff John Black said that Theodore Forgy, 77, of the Clantonville, Ark., community, had pumped fatal bullets into his neighbor, M. K. Ellis, and his brother, 74-year-old George Forgy, before he turned his .38 calibre revolver on himself.

The sheriff and Coroner William F. Burns gave this account of the shooting spree:

Theodore Forgy walked across the road from his shack to Ellis' sawmill, talked with the neighbor a short time and then shot him. Ellis died instantly.

Forgy then ran across a field to his brother's home. He told George he had killed Ellis and that he had "one more man to get."

Theodore resisted when George tried to take the gun away from him. In the scuffle, the revolver was discharged and George fell.

George died at a Rogers hospital last night after telling officers his brother had threatened to shoot another, unidentified man.

Theodore had started back across the field from George's home when Black and State Trooper Leon Clinton, summoned by neighbors, pulled up on a nearby road.

The officers ordered the gunman to stop. Instead, he tried to shoot at Black and Clinton but the gun snapped without firing.

Theodore then put the weapon to his own head and pulled the trigger again. This time the gun fired.

Theodore died a few minutes later.

Ellis' son, Jerry, said the only previous indication of ill feeling between his father and Theodore Forgy was a recent argument over the sale of some hogs.

Coroner Burns said he found in Theodore's shack a note the farmer had written to a son, indicating he planned to kill himself but making no mention of plans to kill anyone else.

Clantonville is about 20 miles northeast of Rogers, near the Arkansas-Missouri border.

Announces Guided Missile System For Jet Airplanes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rocket-powered supersonic guided missile system, designed to be used from airplanes against airplanes, was announced by the Defense Department last night.

The weapon, known as the Sperry Sparrow I, is "fully maneuverable at supersonic speeds, yet light and compact enough to be carried in multiple units by fighter-type jet aircraft," the announcement said.

The Defense Department called the Sparrow a "guided missile system" rather than a guided missile, apparently implying that it is more than a missile.

The Navy disclosed it is training ship and shore personnel for use of the Sparrow by carrier-based jet aircraft both in the Atlantic and the Pacific fleets.

The Navy described the missile types as "systems capable of accurate control when the missile is fired from a speeding jet plane."

Mo. Valley President Speaks for Kiwanis Internation Convention

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — Dr. H. Roe Bartle, president of Missouri Valley College, spoke here yesterday before delegates attending the 39th annual convention of Kiwanis International.

Dr. Bartle said that peace demands a political climate in which leaders may serve without mud-slinging.

"If we want peace on earth we must build a truly lasting and worthwhile peace in our own backyards, which means in the community of which we are a part," he said.

Corpse Is Main Decoration At Closing of Restaurant

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A 26-cent cigar stuck up from the mouth of the corpse. Some said the corpse puffed. It didn't.

It was a real cigar in a dummy corpse. The corpse had the heavy John L. Lewis eyebrows of an Irishman named Patrick Moriarty.

Moriarty is the blackbrowed immigrant proprietor of a tavern two doors east of another establishment that shall be nameless except for the fact that it is secretly supervised by a guy called Toots Shor, one of nature's more hidden gentlemen.

Since their food dens are so close together, Moriarty and Shor naturally have about the same wholesome, heart-warming Damon-and-Pythias regard for each other as Bob Stevens does for Joe McCarthy. In some ways they are even closer, as they don't speak to one another.

But to get back to the corpse . . .

There are plans to build a 35-story skyscraper on west 51st street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, and Moriarty was one of those who got caught with his leases down. As a matter of fact he never had a lease.

But he had to move (whether Toots Shor will also move is one of Mannattan's guessing games) so Pat threw a farewell party.

Pat Moriarty had taken over the tavern only four years before. It had been a rundown joint that many newspapermen used to visit—occasionally—in an evening. The tunes on the jukebox were strictly vintage (early 1920), the house bought every third drink in defiance of all business logic, and when a woman dared stick her head in the door the serious-minded students at the pinball machine shouted, "Get out, you bum."

Moriarty took over the place on a gamble, helped by the money that his wife, Ruth, a schoolteacher, had saved. He threw out the elderly jukebox and the pinball machine. He put in good simple stern food, invited in women, ran a clean place where everybody felt welcome. In other words he wiped a wonderful saloon out of the world and turned it into a fine coeducational restaurant.

Pat threw a party on the house the other night, just before moving to a new location on Sixth avenue (west) near 52nd street—Howie's old place.

It was a wonderful wake for a tavern. A heavy-browed dummy corpse with a 26-cent cigar lay in state by the door. It looked exactly like Moriarty, if one could envisage a bar proprietor lying flat on his back gazing dreamily up at a cash register on the ceiling.

The celebrants included some top advertising men, a group of Rockettes and technicians from the Radio City Music Hall, song writers and actors, writers from magazines like Colliers, Look, Time, Life, and two fellows who claimed they represented another magazine called the "Architectural Country Gentleman and Boy's home Companion."

Said Moriarty in farewell to 51st street:

"I am not a man to stand in the way of a skyscraper. But money-wise I am back where I started. I won't have a jukebox or a pinball machine in the new place. There will be no drinks on the menu, and no waiter will ever suggest to a customer that he should have a drink. But the drinks will be there if they ask for them. I hope good friends follow good food.

"All I did before I have to do again."

The rain fell hard as he turned the key forever on a door that led to many memories of many men. Some dead. Some not.

Chairman Hall Reports No One Thinks Army, McCarthy Probe Useful

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee says he hasn't heard of anyone who thinks the McCarthy - Army hearings "are doing anybody any good."

Hall talked with reporters at the White House yesterday after visiting President Eisenhower in company with members of a special GOP veterans committee.

Hall, asked whether he favors ending the investigation quickly, replied:

"Well, I agree with everybody—I haven't heard anybody yet who thinks they (the hearings) are doing anybody any good."

Gary Cooper Nurses Painful Powder Burns From Film Shooting

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Gary Cooper has braved the terrors of movieland bad men for several decades, but today he nursed painful powder burns from a blank charge fired close to him during a filming near here.

The musket charge singed Cooper yesterday as some 500 extras rushed a fortress during the filming of "Vera Cruz." The lanky star was taken to the French Hospital to have the unburned powder grains picked out of his shoulder and to receive tetanus shots.

Protective finishes for modern automobiles are only 1/3000 of an inch thick.

Considers Suing City for Pigeon Hotel Room Rent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There is more fuss in a small hotel here today, all because one of its rooms is occupied exclusively by a pigeon couple which have hatched an offspring.

When the pigeons set up housekeeping on the floor of his room three weeks ago, Harry Reade, 65, retired telegraph clerk, moved into an adjoining room so as not to disturb them.

He claims the city, which he says owns the pigeons, owes him a month's room rent—and has billed Mayor Norris Poulson for $35. The mayor has politely declined responsibility.

Now that the little bird has been born, Reade says he isn't sure whether he'll carry out his intention to sue the city.

"After all," he said, "It isn't every pigeon that is born in a hotel room, and has a real godfather to care for him."

Pittsburgh Survives Trolley, Bus Strike With Other Vehicles

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Trains, autos, independent bus lines and taxis appeared to have this steel city's transportation situation well in hand today despite a strike of 2,700 trolley and bus operators.

City officials report traffic is moving at a near normal pace as workers and shoppers utilize these other means of transportation to the fullest extent.

The Pennsylvania railroad said commuter traffic, carried by dozens of extra trains, had almost tripled. Car pools have been formed and hitch-hikers are finding it easy to get rides.

Meanwhile no progress was reported in the deadlock between the Pittsburgh Railways Co. and the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employes, division 85.

The union seeks a 30-cent an hour wage increase and other benefits.

Earthquake Rocks Four Greek Villages, Kills One Person

TOKYO (AP)— Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki said today he expects Japan and the United States to sign "very soon" an agreement giving Japan four destroyers and 140 airplanes — possibly including jets — for its expanding defense forces.

The foreign minister told a press conference he expected the 140 planes to be given to Japan. The destroyers, two large and two small, would be loaned, he said.

Okazaki said the planes would be sent to Japan under the recently signed mutual security aid program.

The agreement will raise Japanese ground defense forces from 110,000 to 130,000 men, increase naval forces from six to 16,000 men and create a 5,000-man air force.

In addition to the four destroyers, Okazaki said the two nations were negotiating for other smaller ships. He said the loan of the destroyers was the first step in rebuilding Japan's sea defense power and "more might come later."

Rhee Rejects Allied Plan for Unification

SEOUL (AP)—A high government source said today President Syngman Rhee had rejected a new Allied plan for unification of Korea.

The source said the plan called for U. N.-supervised general elections throughout the country, before the withdrawal of Communist Chinese troops.

The source reported that talks between Rhee and U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean reached a deadlock Sunday after Dean broached the new plan. He quoted Rhee: "A long as any Chinese remain in North Korea, it would be a Communist election."

Formosa Has Double Blackout In One Night

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Sirens signaled two blackouts between midnight and dawn here today when unidentified planes were spotted by radar over the Formosa Channel.

Officials said there was no indication that the planes belonged to the Chinese Reds.

The blackouts came one day after Nationalist and Communist fighter planes clashed twice off the China coast. The Nationalist air force said one Red MIG jet was damaged.

Spring Concert Pleases Large Crowd at Gym Sunday Night

By Barbara Lamy

Sacred Heart's annual spring concert, presented by the Sacred Heart High School glee club under the direction of Sister Mary Everildis, C.PP.S., Sunday night in the Sacred Heart gymnasium, was the exhibition crowning a year of constant practice and effort by the SHHS music students and teachers.

Following is the concert program: "National Anthem," the assembly; "Mother of All" by Gene Lockhart, the chorus; "Royal American March," the band; "Rowing Down to Rio" by Edward German, Bob Rialti; "Battle Hymn of the Republic" arranged by Fred Waring, the chorus; "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" by Ernest Seitz, the senior quartet; "Sequoia," the band; "Dry Bones" by Russell Watson, the boys' quartet; "Eternal Life" (prayer of St. Francis of Assisi) by Dungan, Alphonsine Miles; "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" by Hugh Robertson, the double quartet; "On the Trail" by Ferde Grofe, the chorus; "Mother Machree" by Olcott, David Wasson; "Praise Ye the Father" by Gounod, the chorus; "Nola" by Felix Arndt, a piano solo by Bob Rialti; "Stardust" by Carmichael, Jim Buckley (saxaphone), Wendell (clarinet) and Bob Rialti (piano); "As Torrents" by Elgar-Carin, the chorus; "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho" by Webster-Strickling, the chorus; "Song of the Rose," the band; "Ave Maria" by Arcadelt, the chorus; "Emmitte Spiritum Tuum" by Schuetky, the chorus.

Members of the various music groups are the following: Alphonsine Miles, Lorraine Johnson, Beverly Couhig and Betty Hula, the senior quartet; Bill Couhig, Jim Buckley, Gene Johnson and Bob Rialti, the boys' quartet and Bob Rialti, Bill Couhig, Gene Johnson, Ralph Vickers, Martha Weimholt, Dorothy Pfeiffer, Carolyn Steffen and Eulalia Anton, double mixed quartet.

Accompanists were Mrs. Earl Paxton and Mrs. Henry Salveter, director of the band, J. R. Deming.

Sacred Heart seniors took advantage Monday of their one day of legal truancy, "Sneak Day." With only the knowledge of the school principal, Sister Thea, C.PP.S., and the superintendent, Rev. A. J. Brunswick, C.PP.S., and parents, the senior class began the day by attending early mass. Then packing their lunches and swim suits, they departed for a day of fun to the Lake of the Ozarks.

Meet Your Neighbor Clubbers Tell How They Met Their Husbands

"How I met my husband," was told by 11 members and one visitor, Mrs. Beulah Hones, during the roll call at the Meet Your Neighbor Club, Friday, May 7, at the home of Mrs. C. S. Arnold.

During the business meeting, Mrs. J. L. Knight, president, gave a report on the county council meeting that she attended recently. Plans were made to visit several places of business in Sedalia on Sept. 2.

Mrs. L. W. DeBord gave the history of Mother's Day and Mrs. G. M. Breckenridge and Mrs. Walter Raabe gave an interesting talk on "Picnics and Outdoor Cookery."

The next meeting will be June 3 at the home of Mrs. J. H. Knight.

Missouri and Kansas Witnesses to Speak On River Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Witnesses from Kansas and Missouri will appear before a House Public Works press their views on Army engineer recommended projects on the Marais Des Cygnes-Osage and Charaton Rivers in Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

Yesterday opposition developed to authorization of the Big Perry and Milford Reservoirs. Rep. Miller (D-Kas) opposed both reservoirs.

The reservoir opponents urged that Congress defer any further authorizations of large dams on the Republican River until it is determined whether the Harlan County dam together with soil conservation would take care of the flood problem.

Those appearing in behalf of the recommended program for specific local works included City Manager L. P. Cookingham of Kansas City, Mo.) Christian Stipp, Carrollton, majority leader of the Missouri House of Representatives and Noel Tweet, executive director of the Missouri - Arkansas Basins Flood Control Assn.

Protests 'Foreigners' In Southeast Asia Pact

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesian Foreign Minister Soenarjo says any defense pact for Southeast Asia must be limited to Asian nations if it is to be effective.

Soenarjo told a meeting of Indonesian university students here last night that the presence of "foreign" elements in such a pact is not desirable.

Record Grants For Cerebral Palsy Study

A new record of $454,596 in grants for research of professional training has been approved by United Cerebral Palsy, it was announced today by Leonard H. Goldenson, UCP President.

Forty-nine individual grants to universities, hospitals and other institutions were made from funds contributed by the public in last May's campaign and telethons, postmen's walks and other special events in various cities.

Of the total amount approved $284,638 was allotted to basic and applied research in the medical field; $144,993 to training of personnel and $24,965 to projects in special education.

Research and training projects will be carried on in institutions ranging from the University of California in Los Angeles and the Children's Hospital in San Francisco on the West Coast to Harvard and Columbia Universities on the East Coast. These institutions are located in fifteen different states and Mexico.

"We sincerely hope that this year's campaign, now underway, will permit us to expand our research program to $1,000,000 next year," said Mr. Goldenson. "This is the minimum amount our volunteer Research and Advisory Board has estimated should be made available each year for an effective research attack on the problem of cerebral palsy."

Through allocation to this national program of funds collected in their communities all of the more than 200 affiliates of UCP share in the support of the research and training grants, Mr. Goldenson pointed out. However, seventy-five percent of all funds contributed remain in local communities and states for the support of service programs for the Cerebral Palsied.

"Our UCP program is broadly conceived and has multiple aims," Dr. Gildden L. Brooks, UCP Medical Director, said. "The medical aspect of the program is designed to lead to more accurate information as to the nature of cerebral palsy, the structure of the normal and damaged brain and the causes and effects of brain damage. Refinement of treatment techniques and diagnostic skills is another object of grants-in-aid.

"It is sigificant that in this era of rapid scientific achievement in many fields our exact knowledge is still so limited regarding that most essential structure — the human brain."

"In the field of medical science, a variety of approaches—neurological, surgical, virological, pharmacological—are needed to assemble knowledge pertnent to the nature, causes and possible prevention of CP. Older observations are being restudied with sharper tools—such as radioactive substances, electron microscopes, cellular chemistry, electronic recording, refined surgical and anesthetic techniques. At the same time, new avenues of investigating are being studied."

For training personnel, fellowship, workshops and scholarships are made available to such professional persons are dentists, educators, vocational guidance counselors, medical students and therapists. The largest group of training grants ($21, 20) serves to finance four additional educational workshops during the summer months of the year. Another sizeable sum ($14,300) is set aside to finance vacational yorkshops. Among the other training grants, the largest ($21,368) supports a program for training personnel concerned with the care and treatment of the preschool child.

All of the grants were acted upon under a standard procedure adopted from that used by the National Institute of Health of the U. S. Public Health service, Dr. Brooks pointed out. The scientists, physicians and specialists comprising four volunteer UCP advisory Boards (Research, Clinical, Adult Vocational and Education) recomended individual priorities on each project involved, followed by group action of the boards. Final recommendations were then made by the UCP Medical-Professional Executive Board, comprising leaders of the various advisory Boards and the UCP Medical Director. The grants were then approved by the UCP Finance Committee and its Executive Committee.

"In many cases, applications for worthy projects had to be deferred for lack of funds," Dr. Brooks said. "The backlog of deferred projects amounts to $326,704. The size of this figure indicates the encouraging and increased interest in research into cerebral palsy."

Trial Continues In Case of Slavery Of Negro Farm Hands

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Trial of three white brothers on charges of holding Negro farm hands in slavery resumed today after similar peonage indictments of three others were dismissed by a federal court.

Those against whom the charges still are pending are Oscar Edwin Dial, 34; Fred N. Dial, 25; and Grady Dial, 28, brothers who operate a large farm west of Livingston, Ala., near the Mississippi line.

U. S. Dist. Judge Seybourn H. Lynne dismissed cases against Robert Dial, 44, brother of the other three; and two cousins, Arthur Arnold Dial, 27, and Lindsay Winyard Dial, 43.

The court took the action on recommendation of U. S. Dist. Atty. Frank Johnson Jr., who said he felt the evidence insufficient to convict the three.

All were indicted by a federal grand jury last fall on charges of paying fines of Negro prisoners in nearby jails in Alabama and Mississippi, holding the Negroes in servitude on their farms and beating them if they attempted to escape.

US Exports Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department said today U.S. exports, including shipments of military aid, during the first quarter of this year were 13 per cent less than in the first three months of 1953, and that U. S. imports were 10 per cent less.

Congress Highlights

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Senate Investigations subcommittee, having failed to cut short its public inquiry into the McCarthy-Army row, meets in closed session to consider the possibility of holding night hearings.

The senators discuss the question an hour before resuming public, televised meetings for the 15th day. Of the seven subcommittee members, only Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill) voices opposition to night sessions.

SOUTHEAST ASIA—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles briefs in secret the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his plan for a "united front" against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. Yesterday, Dulles briefed the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Rep. John M. Vorys (R-Ohio), member of the House group, says he doubts that administration plans for a "united front" call for any immediate use of American forces or a large expenditure of money.

WIRE TAPPING—A Senate Judiciary subcommittee takes testimony on Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell's request that use of wiretapped evidence be made legal in federal courts in national security cases. The House has passed such a measure, but with the provision that wire tapping be done with advance court approval.

Colombians Are Held Overnight By Reds

MUNSAN (AP)—Three Colombian officers, including the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Carlos Ortiz-Torres, were released today after being held overnight by the Communists.

The Reds seized the trio last night in the demilitarized zone near Old Baldy on the Central Front, claiming the Colombians had illegally crossed the line of demarcation.

United Nations and Communist members of the joint observation team met today and agreed to meet again tomorrow to submit reports to the military armistice commission.

Two ROK Candidates Are Held for Use Of Abusive Language

SEOUL (AP)—Two candidates for South Korea's National Assembly are under arrest on charges of using abusive language in criticizing President Syngman Rhee's government, National Police Chief Kim Chang Hung announced today.

Lee Yung Man, an independent, is accused of saying Rhee and his Cabinet were as corrupt and doomed as the Communist regime of North Korea.

Sul Hwan Choo, another independent, allegedly charged that members of Rhee's Liberal party paid for his support in the May 20 election. Sul reportedly said candidates seeking official endorsement "carried money bags" to Rhee's mansion.

Tells World Editors Of Need for Facts

VIENNA (AP) — More than 100 editors from 22 nations were told today the free world's newspapers urgently need to inform people more fully.

Newspaper executives attending the third general assembly of the International Press Institute (IPI) heard Lester Markel, chairman of the IPI executive board and Sunday editor of the New York Times say:

"There cannot be understanding unless there is good information (by which I mean information that is accurate, complete and in perspective), and the newspaper is, or should be, the prime source of such information."

Recent events, said Markel, "indicate that public opinion is not really informed—or certainly not as informed as it needs to be to surmount the present crisis." He cited public reaction to the Berlin and Geneva conferences and the debates over Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Claims He's 'Fall Guy' In Extortion Plot

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—One of two brothers charged in the $200,000 extortion plot against 20 Dallas Jewish families says he is just the "fall guy."

He is James Hollis Jones, 49, captured Monday night in a Federal Bureau of Investigation trap as he approached a package supposed to contain the money.

Jones is held in Dallas County jail under charges of using the mails to extort and threatening harm to those addressed. His brother, Ralph Franklin Jones, 42, is held under similar charges, after surrendering voluntarily yesterday. U. S. Commissioner W. Madden Hill set $25,000 bond for each at an arraignment yesterday.

James Hollis Jones, in an interview last night, said his arrest followed a three-day drunk in which he met a mistily-remembered couple in a tavern. He blamed the couple for his predicament.

The elder brother is also charged with assaulting a federal officer and his bond on that charge was set at another $25,000. The FBI says he fired one shot from a .38 caliber revolver as its agents closed in. The bullet went awry.

The extortion letter, identical copies of which went to 19 families, referred critically to "rich Jews," but the older brother said he had no prejudice against members of the race.

"The only way I can add it up," he said, "is that this couple hatched the extortion plot and needed a fall guy to pick up the money in case of a trap.

"I'm the fall guy."

He added he was too drunk to remember how the couple looked or exactly how he came to be at the spot where the "money" package had been tossed by George Schepps, brother of Julius Schepps, principal target of the extortionist.

"I know I met them and that we went somewhere," James Hollis told a reporter. "That's about all. I can't describe them. I was too drunk to remember much of anything."

Asked how he got on the railroad embankment northeast of Dallas, he replied: "I don't know. I remember meeting this man and woman. Then I remember riding in a car, then in a bus, and then in a car. But I don't remember leaving the car.

"The man may have left us along the way. It seems like he did. As drunk as I was, everything was like a dream."

The accused oil driller and lease broker denied firing at FBI agents.

New Bill Would Force 75 Judges Into Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-eight of the 347 federal judges holding lifetime posts would be forced to retire, because they are 75 or over, under a proposed constitutional amendment passed yesterday by the Senate.

But since it may be years before there is final action, presumably few if any of these same judges would be affected.

Besides the mandatory retirement provision, the proposal would fix the size of the Supreme Court at nine justices, thus preventing any future attempt to enlarge or cut the highest tribunal.

Senate approval, sending the measure to the House, came on a vote of 58-19, comfortably more than the required two-thirds. All 43 Republicans present voted for it. So did 15 Democrats. Eighteen Democrats and the lone independent opposed it.

Federal judges now may retire at 65 or 70, but there is no provision forcing them to retire at any age. They draw full pay for life.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo), who opposed the proposal, suggested in the debate that one motive for it might be a desire to force some Democrats off the bench. Most of the present jurists were appointed during the 20 years of Democratic national rule.

But Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md), author of the proposed change in the constitution, said the reason for the age provision was his conviction that most judges have slowed down considerably by the time they reach 75.

Many Types of Airplanes Will Be On Display at SAFB 'Open House'

Anyone interested in airplanes will not want to miss Armed Forces Day at Sedalia Air Force Base next Sunday starting at 11 a. m.

A host of the Air Force's latest planes will be on display, including the mammoth C-124 Globemaster, the B-50 and KC-97. And the speed merchants—the F-86 Sabrejet, the T-33 jet trainer, the F-84 Thunderjet and, of course, the B-47 Stratojet. The roster of aircraft scheduled for Armed Forces Day at SAFB goes on to include the T-28, B-25, C-46 and the Navy's Cougar and Corsair, the C-47, B-26 and the C-45.

In the air over SAFB the visitors will see an aerial refueling demonstration in which a KC-97 tanker hooks up with a thirsty B-47 at low altitude. A rocket assist take off by a B-47 will be demonstrated on the base's new runway.

During the day planes will be in the air almost constantly. In the morning there will be a flyover of six C-46's and three B-47's. These Stratojets will be practicing touch-and-go landings to provide entertainment most of the day. A flight of twelve Navy F-4U's is scheduled to pass over the base at 1:30 p. m. to be followed by another B-47 flyover at 3 p. m.

Many many other demonstrations and exhibits are to be available including a balloon launching by the Moby Dick Detachment, a fire fighting demonstration, a model airplane contest and judo exhibition. Virtually all of the show will be in the hangers and along the new parking ramp.

All the facilities needed to handle the expected crowd have been set up including rest rooms, drinking fountains, first aid, lost and found, lunches at the Officers' Club and benches for those who care to rest.

The traffic will be directed to a huge parking area on the flight line and little delay should be experienced.

Spiz Club Has Annual Banquet Honoring Seniors; Bryan Talks

By Norman L. Griswold

The annual Spiz Club banquet, held for the purpose of honoring the senior members in the organization, was held in the high school cafeteria beginning at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The interior of the cafeteria was decorated extensively with a tropical setting as the theme for the evening.

The program was opened by the invocation by Elaine Bail. Joy Cunningham, 1953-54 Spiz Club president, served as toastmaster for the evening. She gave the welcoming address and introduced the guests of the evening: Mr. and Mrs. Heber U. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Edmondson and the club's sponsor, Miss Lois Gordon.

Before the presentation of the evening's speaker, Cay Carrell sang "Ebbtide," accompanied by Willis Ann Rosenthal.

Rev. David M. Bryan, pastor of the First Christian Church, was the speaker for the evening. His speech, which he tied in with the theme of the evening "The World Is My Oyster, My Success—The Pearl," concerned young people and their participation in the activities in life.

Immediately following the Rev. Bryan's address, Jeanne Sagar presented a gift to Miss Cunningham for serving as the Spiz Club president for the past year.

Dolanna Mabry then sang "How Deep Is the Ocean," accompanied by Vivian Chapin.

Next on the program was the reading of the will and prophecy. The will was read by Barbara Arnold and the prophecy by Marilyn Garrett.

After the reading of the two articles, the toastmaster expressed thanks for the gift which she received and the cooperation which had been given while serving the organization.

A dance followed the banquet.

PRACTICAL NURSES' GRADUATING CLASS—Thirty Sedalia Practical Nurses received their certificates of graduation for the successful completion of a 64 hour refresher course, sponsored by the State Association of Practical Nurses, in the Little Theater of Smith-Cotton High School Monday night. JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The first link of new roadways being built in connection with a new Missouri River bridge here was opened to traffic yesterday.

McCarthy-Army

David Schine was "not much use" to the McCarthy subcommittee and McCarthy hoped Schine would be drafted. Adams said as he recalled this conversation with McCarthy took place about Oct. 14 during a subway ride in New York City. He said Mrs. McCarthy also was present.

Thwarted in their efforts to trim down the public hearings, the seven senators investigating the controversy between Sen. McCarthy and Pentagon officials decided to add an hour and a half to the regular day hearings. They voted against night sessions at this time.

Chairman Mundt (R-SD) announced it had been decided in a closed meeting that in the future morning hearings would begin at 9 a.m. (EST) instead of 9:30 and would continue to run until 11:30 a.m. (EST). The afternoon sessions will begin at 1 p.m. (EST instead of 1:30 and will run until 4 p.m. (EST) instead of only 3:30 p.m.

Mundt said the subcommittee will consider again next week whether to resort to night and Saturday meetings.

To speed the hearings, Mundt asked that senators refrain from making speeches at the opening of the sessions or during their 10-minute period of questioning witnesses.

The chairman also politely urged all parties to put their questions as precisely as possible and refrain from making statements. He urged witnesses to answer as directly as possible, "yes or no" if they could, and not to make speeches with their answers.

Mundt also announced that the regular McCarthy investigating subcommittee staff would be transferred to some other appropriate committee to work on an investigation of alleged corruption in some government projects in Asia.

Bannister's TV Showing Is Cancelled

NEW YORK (AP)—The British Information Service announced today that all commercial television appearances had been canceled for Roger Bannister, England's world mile record-holder, in order to safeguard his amateur status.

The decision came after consultations with American and British amateur athletic authorities.

Bannister, who ran the mile in 3:59.4 last Thursday at Oxford, was flown to New York specifically to appear on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "I've Got a Secret" program at 8:30 p.m. (EST).

He had been scheduled for other television appearances during a two-day stay. All proceeds were to go to charity.

"We decided after a thorough examination that it was best Bannister should appear on no commercial television programs," John Russell, director of the British Information service, said. "He will remain in New York until Friday afternoon. In the meantime he probably will appear on a couple or so non-commercial television programs.

"We don't know now what these might be."

Hal Boyle's Column—

African Finds US Cemeteries And Cafes Most Impressive

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The oddity almanac—facts and fancies from a world of wonders:

What feature of American civilization do you think would most startle a visitor from darkest Africa? . . . Our skyscrapers, movie palaces, traffic jams, or supermarkets?

Well, none of these impressed James Ngaiyaye, a native African minister en route through Denver to a church conference in San Francisco, as much as America's ornate cemeteries and its restaurants.

"Burial in South Africa is such a simple thing it is difficult to look upon it in the outside world," he said. "And eating in Africa is a personal or clan affair. The many, many eating places here are most surprising. It is difficult for me to get used to the custom."

Tell that to your wife and next time she wants to eat out. . . . But this African minister would have been even more amazed if he had visited the Wall Street section here a few years ago, when financial clerks used to eat their lunch while perched on the crumbling tombstones in the old Trinity Church Cemetery.

Woman's - place - is - in - the-home note: When Mrs. Edith Friedman, mother of five children, decided to build a housing development in the Philadelphia area, a big real estate broker told her, "forget it. You don't even know how to climb a step ladder." But Mrs. Friedman didn't take the brushoff. She has finished one 108-home community, now has started another of 138 homes. Her secret? The problem of building many homes is the same faced by any wife in building a single home: "Coordinating manpower and materials" . . . . She found workmen willing to do things for a woman contractor they wouldn't do for a male boss.

Almanac editorial: The Russians have come up with a couple of new home made perfumes called "Spirit of Red Moscow" and "Jubilee of the Red Army."

Why can't America come to its own scents, too, and quit leaning on the French for our perfume nomenclature? It's time we put some patriotic, star-spangled allure in our own bottled smell merchandise.

Just to get the ball rolling we suggest: "Rebel Delight," "Reno Remorse," "Yankee Bliss," "Moment in Pittsburgh," "Potomac Passion," "Seattle Mist," "Washington Whiff," "Tennessee Throb," "Montana Madness," "Kansas City Caper," "Mistake in Milwaukee," "Madcap Memphis Mama," "Aroma Keokuk," "Eau de Chicago," and "Erie Canal No. 5."

Almanac science department: There are over 900,000 known species of animal life on the earth, and about 675,000 are insects . . . . The animals with stiff spines, known as chordates, total about 45,000 species, including birds, frogs, fishes . . .and an unknown number of husbands.

Know-your-America department: You can win wagers by betting your friends they can't name the two American states that have no official motto. Oregon has never had one . . . In 1866 Ohio adopted as its motto, "Imperium in Imperio—a government within a government," but repealed it in 1867 . . . Little Rhode Island has the shortest motto: "Hope" . . . Texas got both its motto—"Friendship"—and its own name from an Indian word, Tejas, meaning friends . . . Washington state has the most restful motto: "Bye and Bye" . . . The motto of the District of Columbia is "Justitia Omnibus," which some politicians believe means "just always stay on the right bus." Actually, of course, it is Latin for "Justice for All."

Almanac long - range weather forecast: Better buy that air conditioner early. Hay fever sneezing season starts promptly Aug. 15, and a flourishing crop of ragweed is in prospect.

Animal Health Pharmacy
by A. B. WARREN

DO!
• Use fresh products. Keep all biological products cool! Such products may deteriorate rapidly unless refrigerated at 35°-45°F. After dried vaccines are made fluid with the diluent in the package, they must be used immediately. Use entire content of vials when first opened. Opened material, if saved, may become contaminated.
• Properly restrain animals. Animals may be held by an assistant or vaccinated in a chute.
• Clean syringes and needles well with any of the newer kitchen synthetic soaps or detergents and hot water before and after use and thoroughly rinse with clear water, then sterilize by boiling in water for 15 minutes.
• Shake bacterins well before using to get a uniform suspension.
• Vaccinate the animal at the site recommended in the package literature. Treat the skin of the injection area with a suitable antiseptic before making the injection.*
• Give accurate doses. To minimize local swellings, massage area of injection to aid in distribution of the bacterin.

DON'T!
• Don't try to immunize animals that are sick, parasitized, or otherwise unhealthy.
• Don't use any biological that has been improperly stored or shipped, or that has been opened before and partially used, or that has been restored to a fluid state from the dried form and held longer than recommended.

Merry-Go-Round

Behind The Geneva Defeat

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—There were so many reasons for the defeat we took in Geneva that they can't all be listed in one column.

But aside from the first major error in not preparing for intensive trouble in Indo-China the minute Soviet arms were released by the Korean truce, here are the highlights of what went wrong in our backstage negotiations:

The man who saw the Indo-Chinese danger most clearly was Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Radford played an amazing, almost unbelievable role as one-man lobbyist to draw the allies into Indo-China. However, he was so active and such a go-getter salesman that he overplayed his hand. The British feared that he wanted to go too far.

It was Radford who put the French up to requesting direct intervention by the United States to save Dien Bien Phu. And since the suggestion to France that it ask for aid came from the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, the French had every reason to think aid would be granted. This is important; for it explains French bitterness when the aid was not granted.

What Radford told the French to ask for was American airplane carriers to break the siege of Dien Bien Phu. Since the Reds had 40,000 men concentrated around that fort, Radford and the French argued that this was a heaven-sent opportunity to bomb a lot of troops at one time, and that American planes and carriers were needed to do it.

Tough Talk

Admiral Radford's suggestion to the French and their request to us came as the Eisenhower administration was talking very tough about Indo-China. Secretary Dulles, the President himself, all said we must stand firm, while the Vice President said we might have to use American troops.

All this, plus the fact that we had the carriers anchored in Tonkin Bay ready for action, gave the French every reason to believe we meant business.

But while the U.S. Navy was ready, the U.S. congress and our No. 1 ally, Great Britain, were not.

And although a series of conferences followed with congressional leaders and British leaders, the net result, as it already known, was a flat turndown.

Reason for the British turndown, hitherto not known, is significant. When Admiral Radford talked to Prime Minister Churchill, he talked about a naval blockade of the China coast. This got the venerable British statesmen worried. He knew that Radford was the foremost American advocate of strong-arm measures against Red China. He also figured Radford's moves might be the first step toward war in all Asia.

Finally he feared that Radford's aggressiveness might endanger the one British outpost left in China—Hong Kong, which can be taken by the Communists in a few days or weeks, if they want to cut off its water supply.

So Churchill was emphatic in telling Admiral Radford that England would not intervene in Indo-China.

Allied Unity Disrupted

It was when Anthony Eden flew back to Geneva with this news on April 25 that a chain of diplomatic reaction started against the conference which Dulles had rescribed as the "hope of the world."

First, the United States rejected the French request for airplane carriers. Naturally the French were furious.

Second, the French began dickering with Molotov. Since we had talked tough, but let them down, we couldn't very well object. .

Third, Secretary Dulles began to back down from his previous public bravado over Indo-China. Naturally Molotov got wind of this, and took over the leadership of the Geneva conference.

Fourth, an every-country-for-itself policy was launched at Geneva. Both England and France began negotiating for themselves with no regard for allied unity. Foreign Minister Bidault tried to make a deal with the Communists to save part of Indo-China; while Foreign Minister Eden flirted with the Chinese Communists to improve the British position at Hong Kong.

Finally, the national security council in Washington decided to accept the inevitable and agree to a line across Indo-China cutting it up into Communist and non-Communist areas. But, simultaneously, Undersecretary of State Beetle Smith cabled from Geneva that the Communists had got tough, would accept no such line and were demanding unconditional surrender.

It was at this point that the United States and Great Britain began pushing hard for an Asiatic NATO which would stop Communist aggression from going beyond Indo-China.

Just In Case

Ever since the outbreak of World War II, the stockpiling of essential materials has been a commonplace of sound defense policy. Now we seem to be going a step further the stockpiling of factories.

Recently, the Ford Motor Company unveiled a complete "packaged" tank factory worth $40 million. In a one-story building, properly dehumidified and put under guard, are stored 5500 items of machinery, tools, gauges and blueprints. All are so carefully catalogued that changes in tank design could be incorporated quickly into the lay-away plan.

This is not the first time war plant machinery has been stored, of course. But it is the first time a complete, self-contained factory has been so set aside, ready for speedy assembly in event of need.

The plan is a good one, imaginative and resourceful. It is good news that it will be applied to other plans in the future.

The duck-billed platypus has a flattened bill like a duck, a fur-covered body, webbed feet, and a broad tail.

The common skunk usually has five in a litter.

The WAC training center at Camp Lee, Va., has the only all-woman band in the U.S. Army.

Golden needles were used by Egyptian surgeon-priests to close wounds.

China kept the secret of making silk from the rest of the world for 3000 years.

In Judging Dulles' Diplomacy Results Should Be Criterion

By Bruce Biossat

Seldom has President Eisenhower spoken more feelingly than when, in his speech to American publishers, he paid tribute to the diplomatic skills of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

At Geneva, Dulles is presently engaged in what should be one of his toughest assignments. He must try to protect American interests in the Pacific, try to keep our foreign friendships warm, and try also to convince congress back home that he is selling us out to the Communists.

As has been well noted before, Dulles has pretty well scotched the early notion that he was destined to be a bumbler in foreign affairs. Increasingly he has gained the confidence of friendly governments as he has worked with their diplomats in conference after conference.

But there is still a feeling of hesitation toward Dulles in many of these quarters. And that doubt appears based largely on the fact that he is, to them, a new kind of diplomat—blunt-talking and stick-wielding.

He has a tendency to strip away the niceties of diplomatic verbiage and call a spade a spade. The inhabitants of some foreign offices find this startling, if not shocking. They are used to the gentle obscritities of diplomatic tradition.

Dulles is a conservative man, but he is not a traditionalist in this sense. He wants to get things done. He believes that American and free world security will be better promoted by plain talk about our objectives, our lines of world defense, and the like.

He is thoroughly convinced that the reason the Communists finally broke the truce deadlock on Korea last year was his unveiled warning that if they did not come to terms the war might be expanded to the Chinese mainland.

And the Secretary believes, too, that his frequent blunt words on Europe has served to curb Russian pressures, for they have given the Reds unmistakable evidence that we have drawn a firm line across the Continent. They can have no illusions about our response to any serious step over those bounds.

Realistic free world diplomats have made a partial adjustment to this new species personified by Dulles. Perhaps, feeling the weight of long tradition on their shoulders, they cannot be expected to go all the way with his innovations.

But at least they should be sufficiently tolerant to be willing to judge Dulles by the results he obtains—not by his departures from old habits.

Schizophrenic Cases Present Major Problem to Medicine

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

There isn't the slightest doubt that one of the great problems of our age lies in the field of mental health.

During World War II, draft statistics showed that far too many of our citizens were suffering from mental ailments, or were mentally deficient to a degree which prevented them from serving their country.

Since the National Association for Mental Health is conducting its fund-raising campaign this month, it seems appropriate to devote some columns to various aspects of the subject.

Today's column deals with a specific mental disease, the name of which is "schizophrenia," or "dementia praecox."

This disorder is responsible for a great deal of antisocial behavior; in many cases the victims require institutional care.

A "splitting" of the personality is the most characteristic feature. The afflicted individual may show thoroughly normal behavior in some respects, and yet be competely abnormal in others.

* * *

The most prominent early symptom is likely to be a change in the outlook of the victim. Sometimes a patient will show an unusual amount of suspiciousness.

Dear friends or relatives may be unjustly suspected of persecutions.

Quite often the first signs consist of disorderliness and lack of cleanliness. Judgement is often impaired. The patient frequently complains of hearing or seeing strange objects which are not there.

Peculiar qualities of the thinking arise. The personality is likely to become gradually altered.

Sometimes mental strain or a disease seems to rapidly bring on the illness, though at other times it comes slowly, without any obvious background cause.

Slight peculiarities and oddities often are present for some time before serious symptoms develop.

* * *

The cause of schizophrenia is not known. Heredity probably plays some part, and it has been stated that more than half of those with schizophrenia have some family history of mental illness.

And there probably are additional factors responsible for the development of this condition.

Schizophrenia is one of our major causes of mental illness. We need to know much more about its origins, prevention and treatment.

Manners Make Friends

It's every bit as important to thank a child for a courtesy as to thank another adult. And yet it is surprising how many adults who think the young people today have no manners treat youngsters with less courtesy than they expect from them.

Kids are imitative—so don't set a bad example.

If you invite guests who are going to a dinner or dance to your house for cocktails, it is up to you, as the host or hostess, to keep an eye on the time. Be sure your "before-party" party won't make the crowd late to the main event.

This is one time when it is permissible for the hostess to suggest to her guests that it's time to be going.

A private secretary wants to know if, when placing calls for her employer, it is permissable to ask, "How are you?" if she has previously spoken to the person called, before she puts her employer on the line.

It would be more businesslike to skip the question. It would also get the call placed faster.

Mac-Army Hearings 'Ugly'

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ugly.

It's probably the best word to describe what to expect now in the Senate hearing on Sen. McCarthy's row with Pentagon officials. Secretary of the Army Stevens by a cold decision has made this a finish fight.

McCarthy has tried to minimize the importance of the hearing, calling it a burlesque and a circus. Now that it's due to go on to the bitter end his political life may be at stake.

Stevens was willing to put his public career on the block. He refused to agree to shorten the hearing by letting the whole business disappear from public view once McCarthy had testified.

If he had agreed, witnesses who testified after McCarthy would have done so behind closed doors, with the public, the press and television cameras excluded although a transcript of what they said would have been given out.

Stevens, on the receiving end of McCarthy's questions for most of his 14 days on the stand, chose to let the hearings run their full course out in the open.

He took the position that not only McCarthy but the senators' two aides in the case, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, should have to face the same kind of cross-examination he did.

This meant, of course, the same treatment for the other two principals on his side of the case, Army Counselor John G. Adams and H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense.

So far the cards have all been in McCarthy's hands. It's Stevens who had to answer questions from the seven senators making the investigation, Ray H. Jenkins, their special counsel, and from McCarthy and Cohn.

McCarthy, simply because Stevens was the witness, nailed him to the chair day after day with questions. Yet, more and more as the days passed, McCarthy has been acting like a man who thought he was surrounded by enemies.

He accused two of the senators—Democrats Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington—of trying to obstruct his hunt for communists.

He turned on a fellow Republican on the committee, a man he himself had nominated to be there, Sen. Dworshak of Idaho, and told him he was sorry he had chosen him.

He repeatedly insinuated Stevens was lying and belittled the secretary's intelligence. Twice he accused Joseph N. Welch, counsel to Stevens and Adams, of breaking agreements which Welch said never existed.

And he tried to humiliate Hensel, who hadn't said a word, by suggesting that Army officers sitting near him were lending him a dignity he didn't deserve and should move away.

His tactics have become rougher as the days pass. If he has reached this point while the cards were still all in his hands, what's his mood going to be when he and Cohn and Carr have to stand up, maybe for weeks, under Army cross-examination?

Did Stevens himself make the decision to go on with the hearings? His boss, Secretary of Defense Wilson, said late yesterday Stevens did. It is not known whether Stevens had President Eisenhower's okay or asked for it.

One thing the administration can be sure of: so long as McCarthy is forced to spend all his time at the hearing, he won't have time to bang away at the administration from other directions, as he did in the past.

Yet Stevens had to consider, before rejecting them, some good reasons for bringing the televised hearings to a halt:

He and his aides could have gone back to their appointed tasks in the Army. McCarthy and the other seven senators could have gone on to other work.

And the Republican party, which faces the congressional elections in the fall, might have been benefited by a quick end to the inquiry. This prolonged spectacle of a strictly Republican family fight can hardly be helping the party.

Would Save Convict From Gas Chamber For Psychology Study

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A nationally known penal authority wants to save convict-author Caryl Chessman from California's gas chamber for use as a "guinea pig" for criminologists.

Dr. Negley K. Teeters of Temple University described the 34-year-old convicted kidnaper as a "brilliant criminal psychopath" who should be studied in order to "find out about his breed and thus know more about hundreds of young delinquents who are following in the same pattern."

Scheduled to die Friday, Chessman has written a best-seller book about his 5½ years in death row at San Quentin Prison. Teeters said Chessman has an IQ of 172 compared to the normal 100.

Wilson Begins Tour Of Far East, Will See Chiang's Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson left Tuesday night on a three week tour of the Far East which will take him to Formosa for the inauguration of Chiang Kai-shek, who has been re-elected president of Nationalist China.

It will be Wilson's first trip to the Western Pacific since he accompanied President-elect Eisenhower there late in 1952.

Wilson is due to arrive in Tokyo May 14. Wilson's announced schedule makes no mention of Korea. His next listed appointment is on May 19 in Formosa.

THE riot in Elaine's blood stream answered the lively rhythm of Marion Erickson's nimble fingers, pounding out "Turkey in the Straw." Yet all energy had ebbed out of her, leaving her muscles shriveled up and powerless.

"Hey, get going," someone whispered.

Elaine felt her nostrils distend at the impatient, unmistakable command in the youthful voice. Irritation impelled a little vitality to her limbs and she moved out into the center of the stage.

Marion winked and bobbed her head, the signal for Elaine to start dancing. Instantaneously, as though a magician had thrown a giant cape over it, the maze of faces disappeared. An inspired vitality shot into her. She was alone. She was happy. She had started to dance. She began to jig, faster and faster, until she feared the music couldn't keep up with her feet.

Her short red skirt whipped around her knees like a scarf in the breeze and she laughed as, for no reason at all, she suddenly leaped to one end of the stage and let her fluttering feet carry her across its full length. At last, in complete exhaustion, she stopped abruptly and collapsed on the piano bench beside Marion.

"That was wonderful! Wonderful!" Marion whispered.

Reality came back for its revenge with her words. The applause hammered against her temples like a pneumatic drill. There was Elaine's mother-in-law in the front seat, the edges of her lips forced upwards, her thin hands banging together in a semblance of clapping, her black eyes black with shock. Elaine expected the shock would change to reproach. She looked away. Misery snaked through her, leaving its leaden weight behind.

She felt inept and clumsy. Only the delight and wonderment and friendliness on Marion's flushed face kept her from running away. But she couldn't desert her friend in her moment of triumph. Strange, how many people she must know in the audience. Old classmates and townspeople she had known all her life. Yet Marion, whom she had met only a few weeks ago, and a few others, were the only ones she counted as real friends. Many old acquaintances hadn't even come to her new home to wish her well. Perhaps they sensed as intuitively as she did that it really wasn't her home. Perhaps fear of a cool reception from Mrs. Dahlstrom kept them away.

All the rhythm had gone from her body. But she willed her feet to skip through the motions of a short encore. Not even Marion seemed to notice that rhythm eluded her.

At last they let her go. Backstage again, she tried to respond graciously to the breathless congratulations of the students clustered around her.

* * *

IN the cheap mirror someone had donated to the high school theatrical enterprise, her blacked face seemed to increase the depth of her eye sockets and her gray eyes stared back at her, pale and haunted.

Even when she cleansed her face, the haunted look remained, increasing her own deep-rooted fear. The vermillion on her lips seemed to emphasize the paleness that had transferred itself to her cheeks. She closed her eyes against her spooky reflection and silently prayed for the strength to change from her scanty costume and go out to face Tom and her mother-in-law.

Only a few stragglers remained in the auditorium when she edged around the corner of the stage. Tom broke away from a small group of people lingering near the door and came to her, his firm steps echoing boldly in the nearly empty room.

Grasping her hand, he grinned at her, "You were quite a hit, sweetheart!" The surprise and elation in his voice drowned some of her fear.

Elaine, somewhat relaxed, let him lead her down the aisle to the only other person in the place she was aware of—Mrs. Dahlstrom. As Elaine approached her mother-in-law, the same terror that had clutched her the day Tom brought her home, rushed back.

* * *

ASTRID, gorgeous in a maroon boucle that caressed her slender curves, was standing beside Mrs. Dahlstrom and in the confusion, Elaine had not seen her. For a moment, Elaine was actually glad Astrid was there.

"Jerry Schmidt and Astrid have invited you and Tom to have a snack with them," Mrs. Dahlstrom said to Elaine.

"Hello, Jerry. Hello, Astrid. And thank you," Elaine managed to say, although she realized now she had nothing to thank Astrid for. Her presence had merely postponed the showdown between Tom's mother and herself. The longer Mrs. Dahlstrom had to brood and ponder over Elaine's unseemly behavior, the worse her anger would be. Elaine's stomach began to churn. Squelching a sigh, Elaine asked, with as much eagerness as she could muster, "Where are we going?"

"Pete's Place," Astrid answered coolly.

"Pete's Place?" Elaine repeated. "Is that new?"

The corners of Astrid's carefully outlined lips curled. "Not exactly. It used to be Peterson's restaurant. Since they remodeled, it's not such a greasy spoon." She smiled again and added, "I hope you don't mind."

"Why should I mind?" Elaine asked evenly. "And Peterson's restaurant was never a greasy spoon. I worked there once, you know."

Astrid's eyebrows raised contemptuously.

A-Scientists Meet To Discuss Peacetime Use of Atomic Energy

LONDON (AP) — U. S., British and Canadian atomic scientists—barred from telling each other bomb secrets—met in Britain last week to swap ideas on peacetime uses of atomic energy, the Department of Atomic Energy announced today.

The scientists gathered at Harwell, Britain's atomic research establishment 60 miles from London, to discuss technical problems that included the design and use of instruments for controlling nuclear reactors and detecting radiation from atomic plants.

It was the fourth time scientists from the three countries had met under the three-power technical cooperation program set up after World War II. The last conference was at Harwell three years ago.

Col. Frank Schwable Ordered to Take Refresher Course

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marine Corps today assigned Col. Frank H. Schwable, the principal in the corps' recent inquiry into his signing of a false germ warfare confession while he was a prisoner of war in Korea, to take a flight refresher course.

The decision of the inquiry court was not to file charges against the flier.

Upon completion of the course at the Cherry Point, N. C., Marine Base, Schwable will be assigned to duty in Washington as Marine representative in the Navy flight safety program.

Schwable was a combat pilot in World War II and was chief of staff of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea when he was shot down on an observation flight.

Finds Son Hanging In Family Garage

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—A mother returning from a YWCA meeting last night found her son, a 13-year-old Boy Scout, hanging in the family garage.

Authorities said the victim, Robert Mowle, apparently hanged himself accidentally while practicing knotting for a troop contest.

Police said he must have climbed a ladder, which was found at a 45-degree angle, and thrown one end of the rope over a beam. He may have been hoisted up and hanged when one of the knots caught on the beam.

Mrs. Helen Mowle saw the body hanging as she entered the driveway. She and her husband Thomas rushed to the boy. While Mowle held the body, Mrs. Mowle cut the rope. Artificial respiration by police filed to revive the boy.

Mowle is controller for the Wall Street Journal.

Faint Hope Chessman May Miss Death

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Faint hope glimmered today for the life of Caryl Chessman, condemned genius, author and rapist scheduled to die Friday. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight agreed to look over the record of his Los Angeles conviction of kidnaping with bodily harm.

Knight earlier dismissed plea for clemency for Chessman filed by a criminologist and a noted author. He said Chessman's crimes —kidnaping, attempted rape, sex perversion and robbery—were "horrible and there were 17 of them." And he said one of Chessman's female victims is still in a mental hospital as a result of his attack.

California law makes no exception of "people who write books," Knight added. He referred to Chessman's "Cell 2455, Death Row," a best seller.

However, after a half-hour closed-door conference late yesterday with Chessman's attorney Berwyn Rice, Knight said he wil' review one point of the 32-year-old convict's 1948 conviction—whether the court reporter's notes were sufficient.

The original court reporter died during the trial. Rice contends his replacement was not fully able to translate the first reporters notes for the appeal record.

Chessman's chances of avoiding San Quentin's green-painted gas chamber seemed slim, however. Before talking with Rice, the governor said he had no intention of setting himself up as a "super supreme court" to judge issues already decided.

Chessman, who acted as his own attorney until he hired Rice with a $1,000 advance on his book, already had fought his case up to the U. S. Supreme Court and was turned down all the way. Before Knight became governor, Gov. Earl Warren, now chief justice of the United States, had refused clemency.

Pleas to spare Chessman grew this month with publication of his book. First author Niven Busch asked clemency, saying Chessman has become "in a sense" a useful citizen by writing the story of his life of crime and imprisonment.

Then Dr. Negley K. Teeters, a Temple University criminologist, suggested Chessman be spared to "serve as a guinea pig for science."

Red Party Reaching Out to New People With Books and Pamplets

By J. M. ROBERTS JR
Associated Press News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist party in the United States is reaching out to people it has never contacted before in a new "thought control" campaign and a new, direct, political effort.

New names are being added to its mailing lists, new books and pamphlets to its publications.

The party recently adopted a new emphasis on "Americanism."

The latest pamphlet, a general outline of the program, is entitled "The American Way to Jobs-Peace-Democracy."

It joins numerous recent tracts playing on the prejudices connected with racial and labor problems, and in defense of the Communist leaders convicted during the past couple of years. Among these tracts are "New Opportunities in the Fight for Peace and Freedom" by Andrew Stevens; "Next Steps in the Struggle for Negro Freedom" by Hugh Bradley; "Thirteen Communists Speak to the Court," being the speeches of defendants in the New York Smith Act trial; and the summation speeches by Pettis Perry and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn.

"The American Way," published in April, carries the imprint of New Century Publishers, 832 Broadway, New York, does not carry the author's name, but is being distributed by mail accompanied by a letter signed by William Z. Foster, Pettis Perry and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, on stationery of the Communist Party, U. S. A.

One phrase in the letter calls for "resolving differences, not their sharpening," and calls attention to "the American way" for doing so.

The pamphlet starts out with the flat statement that the United States is on the verge of an economic depression designed by the monopolists, aided by the government, to flatten small business and the common people. It goes on to American foreign policy, and the section might have been written by Molotov. It is brief, but manages to offer almost all the most significant and most familiar Kremlin policies, including:

A return to what it terms the Roosevelt policy of big power negotiation against—presumably—the United Nations system designed to give weight to the desires of all nations, large or small.

An end to the arms race.

Promotion of world trade.

An end to the rearming of Germany and Japan.

No intervention in the affairs of other nations, such as the Dulles effort to encourage the European satellites that liberation is eventual.

The third section attacks McCarthyism—an attack which the senator must find very helpful at this moment—and pays the usual Communist lip service to the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

The treatise admits that no one group can meet the nation's needs, and calls for unity of all the "democratic" and "peace-loving" forces, which in the Red lexicon is a call to join the Communists.

Many phrases in the pamphlet actually are designed to play on the emotions of the racially prejudiced and the confused liberal. They are followed by many whole paragraphs which are almost identical with the official instructions of the old Comintern as to how class disunity is to be created. The American Communists don't say publicly, but the Comintern did, that the disunity thus created shall be seized upon at the proper time as the basis for armed revolution.

All this new campaign is being carried on against the background of instructions recently issued by the Russian-controlled Cominform.

"The American Way" makes specific appeals to small business men, farmers and laborers as the Cominform ordered.

It attempts to identify "anticommunism" with fascism, as the Cominform ordered.

The party in the United States announced originally that its new outline of objectives would be issued in a million-copy edition. That is "The American Way." People who never received any Communist propaganda before are receiving it now. It makes efforts to appear interested only in America, even to the point of asking for criticism of the program in an effort to achieve a coalition front with non-Communist Americans—as ordered by the Cominform.

But it also says, in the so-familiar words of the Kremlin Communists: "We proclaim our fraternity with all peoples who have pioneered the new frontiers of history toward socialism." That is the fraternity — disowned by True Socialists — upon which the Lenin-Stalinists have always proclaimed their reliance for world revolution.

Bails Out of Jet Plane, Lands Safely In Lake Michigan

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP)—A pilot of a U.S. Air Force Sabre jet bailed out of his disabled plane into Lake Michigan and was found early today uninjured, two hours later in his oneman life raft.

The pilot, 2nd Lt. Theodore R. Miller, of O'Hare Air Force base, near Chicago, was picked up by coast guardsmen about 12 miles off shore from Kenosha. He had been spotted by searching planes from O'Hare.

Ten planes and coast guard cutters had been sent in search of the missing pilot after Miller had reported by radio that he was having trouble with his plane.

Miller had taken off from O'Hare in the single seat jet fighter on a practice flight. Twenty-two minutes later he reported from a point 12 miles east of Kenosha that he was having trouble. However, a ground control radar station lost contact two minutes later and a search was started.

Jersey City Gets Moving Sidewalk

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Conveyor belts, which have been lugging coal and ore and the like for years, are going to tackle commuters two weeks from today.

New Jersey citizens who use the Erie Railroad and then the tubes under the Hudson River to get to work in Manhattan will be taking their first rides on a moving sidewalk in Jersey City.

The belt could care for almost 11,000 foot-sore commuters an hour. The greater part of it covers a 10 per cent grade. It's supposed to ease pedestrian traffic jams as well as weary muscles.

Workers in this city made the 460-foot continuous belt. And workers in Aurora, Ill., turned out the 30 tons of equipment on which the belt rides.

The Jersey City installation is called the world's first commercial passenger conveyor belt. Its builders hope it will be the first of many.

Dies of Injuries In Auto Accident

BROOKFIELD, (AP) — Wilbert H. Cheek, 17, who was graduated from the LaClede high school only five days ago, died last night from injuries he suffered in an automobile accident on a Linn County Gravel road approximately four miles southeast of his home in LaClede. Two witnesses of the accident reported his car failed to make a curve, hit a grader ditch, and veered back onto the road, turning over.

The youth, who was driving alone was thrown from the car which rolled over him as he lay on the road. He was brought to a Brookfield hospital, but he died shortly afterward.

Horace Mann Grade School The 1954 Track Champion

Jefferson School Class B, Whittier Class C Winners In Grade School Meet

The Horace Mann track team managed to outscore five other grade schools in winning the Class A track championship. Horace Mann had first place winners in the 50-yard dash, the shuttle relay and the high jump. Noland took the honors in the 50-yard dash, and Jones took the high jump event. Noland also scored in the 25-yard dash, taking third. Other scorers for the Horace Mann team were: Houchens, second in the high jump and third in the 50-yard dash; Brown, third in the pole vault and Jones, a tie for second in the broad jump.

The runner-up to the Horace Mann team in the Class A division was the strong Whittier team. It took two first places and had seven men taking part in the scoring. Burford took first in the 25-yard dash and took a tie for second in the broad jump. Whittier had two men placing in the 50-yard dash and the pole vault. Reed and Griswold finished second and fourth in the 50-yard dash and Reed and Antoine took first and fourth place honors in the pole vault. The Whittier shuttle relay team took third place to round out the team scoring.

The third place team in the 'A' bracket was Broadway. Broadway had a double winner in Coffey, who took first place honors in the shotput and the broad jump. Others receiving points for the Broadway team were: Kassar, second in the shotput and fifth in the broad jump; Williams, fifth in the pole vault and Mehish, a tie for third in the high jump.

Mark Twain took fourth place, with no firsts. Maggard was the main point maker for the Mark Twain team. He took second in the pole vault for 5 points.

Washington finished fifth and Jefferson sixth. Washington took second and fourth in the 25-yard dash and scored in the high jump while the Jefferson team scored a lone point, it being in the shot put.

In the class B events, Jefferson's tracksters proved to be the outstanding performers as they took the affair with 35½ points. They were closely followed by the Horace Mann team which had 34½ points.

The Jefferson team showed its best form in the 25-yard dash, 50-yard dash, shuttle relay and the shot put.

The Jefferson team took first in the 50-yard dash, first in the shotput and first in the shuttle relay as well as placing two men in the 25-yard dash. Thompson took first in the 50-yard dash, second in the 25-yard dash, and Garrison received top honors in the shotput circle and took third in the 25-yard dash. Other point makers for the winning Jefferson team were: Watring in the high jump and Hageman, third in the pole vault.

The runner-up team, Horace Mann, took first in the pole vault and broad jump. Shepherd cleared the vaulting pole at 6 feet and 6 inches and Lower took a first in the broad jump. Other scorers for the Horace Mann team were: Miller and Wertz. The Horace Mann shuttle relay team placed second.

Third place team in Class B was Whittier. That team proved strong in the broad jump and high jump and finished third in the shuttle relay. Shackles took first in the high jump and second in the broad jump. Other Whittier Class B points were made by Fisher, Self, Esser and Stetzenbach.

Fourth place went to Broadway with 18 points. That team scored eight points in the shotput and Maune took second in the high jump.

Fifth place went to Washington with 16½ points and last place to Mark Twain with 4½ points. Zimmerschied took a first in the 25-yard dash for the Washington team.

The Class C division found the Whittier team victorious with 45 points. They scored heavily in the 25-yard dash, 50-yard dash, shuttle relay, shotput and pole vault. Harms was the leading pointmaker for the winning Whittier team with 16 points. He took first in the pole vault and broke the tape at the finish line of the 25-yard dash for first place. Griffith took a first in the shotput with Stout taking second in the same event. Nichols was able to score a second in the 50-yard dash and third in the 25-yard event behind his teammate Harms. The Whittier shuttle relay team sailed thru their final running event with a record breaking time, :28.2.

The second place team in the 'C' class was Horace Mann with 29 points. That team scored in the 50-yard dash with Spieler taking a first for a record. Holman took second place in the pole vault for five points.

Third place went to Broadway with 25 points. The leading scorer was DeJarnette, who took a first in the broad jump. Other entrants scoring for the third place Broadway team were Moss, Randall and Benner.

Fourth in the small weight class went to Washington with a total of 18 points. That team scored seconds in the 25-yard dash, broad jump and the shuttle relay.

Mark Twain finished fifth with 11½ points and Jefferson took last scoring 3½ points.

The participants were placed in Classes A, B or C in accordance with the respective weights.

Springfield Beats Tigers In District

Smith-Cotton High School Tigers couldn't make it through the district playoffs but they gave the Springfield High School a hard time until the final innings and last pitch of the game, only to lose a 5-4 decision.

The Sedalian's lack the fight they had in the game against Buffalo last week, but were spurred on by Coach Ralph Stub Dow who was "caged in" in the grandstand.

Elroy Burton started off in good shape but moved out of the pitchers box to third base and was relieved by Kenneth Buhlig who worked hard to hold the opponents.

The Tigers opened the game as the visiting team and scored a run in the top half of the inning, Mines scoring. Then Springfield tied it up in the bottom half of the stanza, when Bayliff who was walked, went to second on a sacrifice, and scored on Kiser's single. The Springfield team took the lead in the second when Tomilson scored.

The Sedalians tied it up in the third when Burton tallied a run after getting on on a fielders choice and scored on Lane's single. In the top of the sixth the Tigers tallied two more runs which looked for a time might be the clinching runs. Schmitt singled, Lane singled, and the two advanced on a wild pitch. McCown singled scoring both Schmitt and Lane.

But in the bottom of the seventh, an error on Neal put Bayliff on first, a double error on Barbour after Moore had singled resulted in both runners advancing to third and second. Donaldson walked. A sacrifice by Kiser, Bayliff scored. Hoffman was out Burton to McCown. Bradley with two outs, and two strikes on him took a hefty swing and sent the third pitched ball down the thirdbase line and Moore and Donaldson scored to win the game.

Trinity Lutheran Beats Engineers In Softball Loop

The National Engineering softball team suffered its second loss, with a score of 10-6, Tuesday night in a battle with the Trinity Lutheran Church crew at Housel Park. Trinity Lutheran moves into second place with the win and the Engineers fall into third position in the league's American division race.

It was a tight game until the sixth inning. The engineers had pulled up from behind and tied the Lutherans 5-5. When Phillips, Vincent and Jim Pate sustained injuries in the sixth inning of play; the Engineers weakened and the Lutherans scored five runs for the final tally.

Walker took the win for the Lutherans and Wessal was the losing pitcher for the Engineers.

The first game, between the DeMolays and T and O Lime, was called when the teams failed to muster the required number of players. The game will be played at a later date.

A non-league game is scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock when the East Sedalia Blues meet Pittsburgh Corning on the Housel diamond.

Thursday night the Moose will play the First Baptist Church in the 7:15 opener and the Meadow Gold and SAFB clubs will clash in the night cap at 9.

Yesterday's Games---
Braves Find How to Win In Flatbush

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

If times get tough, Charlie Grimm may be able to sell his secrets on how to win in Ebbets Field.

The Brooklyn Dodger ball park, graveyard of many pennant hopes last season, proved surprisingly friendly territory to Grimm's Milwaukee Braves.

They won six of 11 games there. No other visiting team won more than three. The St. Louis Cardinals didn't win any.

Now the 1954 edition of the Milwaukee wonders are trying to do the job even better.

They invaded Brooklyn last night for the first time this season and walked off with a 2-0 triumph. The pitching chores were handled superbly by Gene Conley, a king-sized rookie right-hander. In striking out seven while walking nobody, the 6-foot-8 side-arm specialist pinned the first shutout on the Dodgers since June 11 last year, when another rookie, Allan Worthington of the New York Giants, turned the trick.

The Braves won even though they lost one of the most prolonged arguments of the season. A seventh-inning drive by Eddie Mathews bounced off a railing atop the center field fence and fell back on the field.

Umpire Bill Engelin ruled it a double since Mathews got only as far as second before the Dodgers tried to make a play on him. Umpire Bill Summers called it a home run and waved Mathews in. The Dodgers screamed. The four umpires huddled. The Braves screamed. But in the end Mathews was sent back to second. Despite the ruling, the drive scored Danny O'Connell from first base with Milwaukee's second run. The first came on Joe Adcock's home run.

Elsewhere in the National League the New York Giants defeated Cincinnati 5-4 and Philadelphia edged Chicago 8-7 in 10 innings. The St. Louis-Pirates game at Pittsburgh was rained out.

In the American League Joe Coleman of the Baltimore Orioles allowed his former Philadelphia teammates only two hits, both singles, as the Orioles beat the Athletics 2-0. New York defeated Cleveland 5-3, Chicago shaded Boston 2-1 and Washington beat Detroit 5-3.

Full Hearing On Callaway ASP Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has instructed the Missouri Agricultural Stabilization Service Committee to conduct a "full and complete" hearing in its controversy with recently-firred members of its Callaway County committee.

The state group fired members of the county committee on the grounds the later were not complying with agriculture department regulations in carrying out their duties in connection with federal crop control, price support and related programs.

One of the differences between the state and county committees was the selection of a county office manager.

A spokesman said the department had instructed the state committee to hold a closed hearing on the controversy and to take recorded testimony from all persons involved and then to make a new decision on the basis of this hearing. A hearing started at Columbia, Mo., last week, but recessed to meet there again on June 14.

The spokesman said the department here would review the new findings of the state committee should the ousted Callaway County committee members request it.

Meanwhile, the dismissed committeemen have filed suit in federal court to force their reinstatement.

Stevenson Returns For Medical Checkup

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson was back in Passavant Hospital today for a physical checkup after making his first public appearance yesterday since his April 12 kidney stone operation.

The 1952 Democratic presidential nominee's physician, however, said his "health is excellent and his recovery ahead of schedule."

Stevenson is expected to remain in the hospital two or three days. He is due to make a speech May 28 at Meridian, Miss.

Yesterday he visited campaign headquarters of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) and told Douglas' supporters, "I've enlisted to serve in any way I possibly can to assure the return of Sen. Douglas to Washington."

Robs Movie Theater Amid Blaring Parade

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—As blaring bands marched by in the Armed Forces Day parade, a man slipped up to the cashier's window of a movie theater yesterday and handed Miss Muriel DePrey, 18, this note:

"This is a stickup. Do not make a sound. If you do I'll kill you. No alarms. The money or your life. Put in bag."

The bandit dashed past the backs of the crowd and ran down an alley with $100 in cash.

Minister's Funeral Request Is Granted By Church Teamwork

FLORENCE, S. C. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. P. Frank Price's funeral request was fulfilled today, thanks to interdenominational teamwork.

The former moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church, who died Monday, had asked that his funeral be at Central Methodist Church here. That was for convenience of the staff of nearby McLeod Infirmary, which he had served as chaplain.

A statewide women's convention was scheduled for the Methodist church at the hour of the services, so the First Baptist Church stepped in with an offer—accepted—for the Methodist women to meet there.

'Rustlers' Herd 500 Elephants From Garage

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — City police rounded up a band of 12-year-old "rustlers" yesterday.

Detective Lt. F. Larue Horner said the youngsters had rustled a herd of 500 elephants from the garage of Mrs. Nathan B. Bubb Jr.

The elephants were returned to their owner.

The only damage reported was one ear broken off a five-inch china elephant. The rest of the collection was intact.

Humphrey Says Helping Business Most Needed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey says helping business is more important to the economy right now than helping consumers.

"You can stimulate consumer buying until the cows come home but that won't stimulate the heavy goods industries," he told a CIO "full employment" meeting yesterday. He contended the nation cannot be prosperous unless heavy industry thrives.

He said that helping business and investors buy capital goods will provide more tools and thus more jobs.

Leaps Into 'River,' Hurts Head Slightly

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Now Merle C. Christian, 45, knows that "river" doesn't necessarily mean water in central Arizona.

He left his hotel yesterday, telling the manager he might not be back. At a pawnbroker's, he sold his clothing, including Army discharge papers, with the comment: "I won't need them any more."

Then he walked to the highest point of the bridge over the Salt River and went over the railing.

He hit the sandy river bed, where water had not flowed for years, and slightly hurt his head.

Hits Police Ambulance, Asks Wrong Question

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Joseph Deluca, 44, of Columbus crashed into the rear of a police ambulance cruiser at a stop light yesterday.

When the jarred patrolmen ran back to talk to Deluca, he greeted them with a polite nod and inquired sociably, "What street am I on, please?"

He was charged with drunken driving.

Attorneys Debate How To List Dental Plate

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP)—Legal eagles here are trying to figure out whether a woman's $230 suit for damage to her dental plate falls under "personal injury" or "property damage."

The woman is suing the village on the ground the sidewalk where she fell and broke her plate was of faulty construction. In reviewing the suit this week, village trustees discovered the village had no insurance to cover property damage suits.

Village Clerk Ralph Jackson said insurance men contended the woman had suffered "property damage." The trustees referred the problem to Donald Fuller, village attorney.

Taxpayer Asks Senator To Trim Investigation For Husband's Sake

WASHINGTON (AP)— Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), a member of the McCarthy-Army investigating subcommittee, has received the following letter from Cincinnati:

"Mr. Sen. McClellan:

"Just when do you think you could stop these hearings. My husband has given up his job, just sits and watches those hearings all day, doesn't work any more. Being a Democrat he has laughed so much that he has become ill and I don't think he able to go back even if it was over. He claims this is the biggest mess he has ever seen in Washington. The only time my husband stops laughing is when McCarthy starts to grunt and hold up his hand and asks for a point of order. My husband just isn't sure just what McCarthy wants. Can you explain.

Bandit Makes Second Robbery of Hotel

OMAHA (AP)—Hotel clerk Chester L. Clark told police a bandit who had robbed the hotel a month ago popped out of a hiding place with a long knife in the early morning and said:

"Well, here I am again."

This time he took $40 from the cash register.

RESOLUTION NO. 118

A RESOLUTION declaring it necessary to bring to the established grade all that part of Sneed Avenue for the purpose of constructing and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on both sides of Sneed Avenue from the south line of 16th Street thence south to the north line of 18th Street Street, all public streets in the City of Sedalia, Missouri.

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, finds, deems and declares it to be necessary to bring to the established grade all that part of Sneed Avenue from the south line of Sixteenth Street, thence south to the north line of Eighteenth Street, for the purpose of and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on both sides of said Sneed Avenue from said south line of Sixteenth Street, thence south to the north line of Eighteenth Street, all public streets within the said City of Sedalia, according to the plans and specifications to be prepared by the City Engineer of said City, and to be on file with the City Clerk of said City on or before the 15th day of May, 1954.

SECTION 2. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the curbing and guttering herein provided for shall include all curbs and gutters and all returns of said curb and gutter at all intersections of streets and alleys, if any.

SECTION 3. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City Engineer of said City of Sedalia, shall prepare plans and specifications for said work and improvements together with an estimate of the cost thereof, and shall file the same with the City Clerk of said City of Sedalia on or before the 15th day of May, 1954.

SECTION 4. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the cost of said improvement shall be paid by special assessment against the lots and lands fronting or abutting on either side of said part of Sneed Avenue, a public street within said City as aforesaid, to be so improved and on said improvements being completed, special tax bills shall be issued against said lots and lands chargeable with the costs of said improvement, and that the cost of bringing said part of said Sneed Avenue to the established grade shall be included in the special assessment for the paying for and bringing of said street to the established grade and curbing and guttering all that part of said Sneed Avenue in the City of Sedalia, in manner and form as hereinbefore set forth.

SECTION 5. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution be published for seven (7) consecutive insertions in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, a daily newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said City of Sedalia, Missouri.

PASSED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, on the 3rd day of May, 1954.

JULIAN H. BAGBY,
President of the Council.

APPROVED by the Mayor of said City on this 4th day of May, 1954.

JULIAN H. BAGBY,
Mayor.

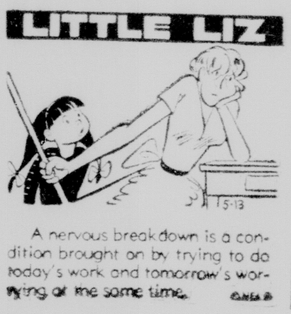

ATTEST with the Seal of Said City:
W. C. REAM,
(Seal) City Clerk.

Reports on How FBI Handles Files of Super-Secret Data

Editor's Note—Few ever get a look at what goes on inside the FBI's headquarters on Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue. Here's J. Edgar Hoover's description of how FBI agents handle the super-secret information filed away there and how they go about getting it. Here, too, are Hoover's own comments on those who claim they have a personal link with those files.

By DON WHITEHEAD
Copyright 1954

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—In a sprawling building near the nation's Capitol, there is a huge room which probably is the repository of more secrets and confidential information than could be found in any other spot in the United States.

It is guarded day and night. Only a few people have access to this room — all members of the FBI. It's a storehouse of hopes and fears, gossip and fact, loyalty and subversion within the government.

In the file cases—row upon row of them—are the "raw files" of the FBI, the files which if turned loose could become a blackmailer's treasury.

Each file jacket has only a number on it—nothing more. The key to locating a specific number and a name lies in the file index which is kept closely guarded in the FBI headquarters on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Who has access to these files? Are they opened to members or the staffs of congressional investigating committees? Are certain cases intentionally "leaker" by the FBI to favored friends?

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, for 30 years the guardian of many of the nation's secrets, said in an interview that any outsider who says he has access to FBI raw files, or is tipped by the FBI to information in those files, is a liar.

"When anyone not entitled to such information says, 'This came from the FBI,' then he deliberately or unwittingly creates an impression that is false.

"In the case of Judith Coplon charged with giving government secrets to a Russian spy I objected most vigorously to opening our files to the court, but I was overruled by then Atty. Gen. Tom Clark. Our reports contain many unverified rumors. They are our work papers and work papers are not for public examination until proved or disproved. They are like the working papers of a reporter or a businessman; they aren't ready for publication until the finished product contains all the pertinent information.

"We do accept confidences. Nothing is more sacred to us, because confidential information is absolutely necessary in getting at the truth or falsity of charges. Yet we are criticized because we don't identify informants.

"I recall an early meeting with Chairman Seth Richardson and the old Loyalty Review Board set up under the last administration. The question came up whether or not, for the benefit of the loyalty boards, those giving information should be identified.

"I told them if they demanded identification of our sources, then I would be compelled to say to any informant that his name might be made public—and that would include our own confidential agents planted in the Communist party.

"Then they saw that such a ruling would mean the FBI would be denied certain vital, confidential information. I told the board that we would indicate the reliability of our informants and whether reports were motivated by personal feuds, jealousies or other causes. But if I say an informant's name won't be disclosed, then it will not be.

"We have gone underground with the Communists as they have gone underground. This is necessary in order to know what they are doing. It would be fatal to identify our informants in the Red underground."

Then Hoover referred to Elizabeth Bentley, who frequently has testified before congressional committees in espionage and subversion hearings.

"We never have found her to be inaccurate," he said. "But we don't accept information on its face value even from those we consider reliable without a double check. There is always a check made of the information we receive.

"I flatly refuse to evaluate whether a person is a security risk, a spy or a subversive. My job is to get the facts, and I've consistently resisted telling what I think should be done. Some committees of Congress have asked me to say whether I think prosecutions should be made in certain cases. But it is not my place to say.

"When we deviate from our present policy, then we come close to the field of being a Gestapo."

Under the original loyalty program set up by the Truman administration, the FBI had the responsibility of investigating any employe whose loyalty became a matter of question either through mere gossip or on more substantial evidence.

Since the 1947 program went into effect, the investigations have been broadened to include "security risks" — and a security risk under the current definitions may be anyone who drinks excessively, whose morals are questionable, a "blabbermouth," or one whose habits might lead to blackmail by an enemy agent.

In checking the backgrounds of those applicants for high government posts, the FBI makes an inquiry in which there is no issue of loyalty, honesty or integrity. In these cases the FBI submits a condensation of the investigative reports, for example, saying 40 people interviewed gave a favorable report on the applicant, five said he was a "stinker" and details are given of what was said and five had no opinion one way or another.

"This is merely a guide to enable the agency or department head to decide whether he wants to hire the man," an FBI source explained.

When a question of subversion and loyalty is involved, the FBI goes into a full field investigation. The agents report rumor, gossip, facts and everything they are able to collect. Some sources, with their consent, are identified. Other sources who ask to remain anonymous are identified by a symbol known only to the FBI. And there is an evaluation of whether the sources' reliability is established, unknown or questionable.

Attached to his report is also an administrative report in which the agents identify the sources, expl

Survey Shows 'Bobby Pin Notch' Cases

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—A study of teeth among Santa Fe school children showed a large number of cases of "bobby pin notch."

This is a wearing-down of irreplaceable tooth enamel by opening bobby pins with the teeth.

Dr. David Striffler, public health dental director said "a lot of notches" were found in the front teeth of junior high school girls.

Municipal Floodlight?

BOSTON (AP) — City Hall telephone operators are used to receiving unusual requests but this one really lighted up thes witchboard.

A man called up and wanted three street lights installed in front of his home so he could ten his garden at night.

$92,500 Fines Added to Woes Of Dock Union

NEW YORK (AP)—Fines totaling $92,500 have been added to the woes of the old International Longshoremen's Assn., now locked in a life struggle for control of dock workers in the Port of New York.

The fines, plus jail sentences for three ILA local officials, stem from March 5 to April 2.

They were imposed last night The strike flared up in the shortly after a jury decided the union had violated a no-strike injunction and was guilty of criminal contempt.

The penalties were far less than those asked by the National Labor Relations Board, which brought court action against the Union. The board asked a $25,000 fine for the parent ILA for each day of the month-long strike and $100,000 fines against eight of its locals.

Defense attorneys announced they would appeal the case today.

The strike flared up in the midst of tense rivalry between the old union, which had long held firm control over dock workers, and a new ILA set up by the AFL. Overthrow of the old ILA was sought by the AFL after it kicked out the union and revoked its AFL charter last September on grounds that it was dominated by racketeers.

An NLRB bargaining election last December between the two unions was voided because of strong-arm tactics by the old ILA, and a second vote had been set for May 26.

The strike, which hit the port during the uneasy period after the first election, brought a fine of $50,000 against the parent ILA and $5,000 each against seven of its locals.

The judge set a heavier penalty of $7,500 on an eighth local, No 824, which ruled the uptown Hudson River docks of luxury passenger liners and had been dubbed the "Pistol Local" because of its reputation for violence.

A six-month jail sentence was ordered for Harold Bowers, secretary of Local 824. Three-month terms were given to William P. Lynch, secretary-treasurer of Local 791, and William Ackalitis, secretary of Local 874.

The ILA specifically was found guilty of violating a March 4 court injunction against interfering with unloading of trucks driven by members of the AFL Teamsters Union, which had been backing the ILA-AFL.

The dispute with the teamsters was set off by dismissal of an AFL-ILA shop steward at Pier 32 on the Hudson River. Charging this resulted from ILA pressures, the teamsters refused to deliver goods to ILA workers on that pier.

In turn, the ILA declared a boycott against teamster-delivered cargo at all other piers. The ILA officially declared the strike illegal at first but later endorsed it.

In the December NLRB election the ILA polled the most votes but the count was close enough to be in doubt when the AFL challenged some 4,000 ballots.

When the strike began, the NLRB had not issued a final decision on the election. It later ordered a new election, and declared the ILA would be ruled off the ballot unless the strike was ended immediately. The ILA quickly complied.

Newark Re-elects Carlin As Its Mayor

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Mayor Leo P. Carlin, 45-year-old former head of an AFL teamsters local, has been re-elected mayor of Newark.

He polled 62,929 votes — more than the combined total of his two opponents, former Mayor Ralph A. Villani and Commissioner Pearce R. Franklin, in yesterday's balloting.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Dragnet Is Being Filmed Not For TV, But For the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Let's take a look at the king-size "Dragnet."

Jack Webb and his crime-busting gang are shooting "Dragnet" these days, but there's a difference. This time they're working not at their usual haunt, Disney Studios, but a mile away at Warner Brothers. And the end result will not be a half-hour TV drama but an hour-and-a-half movie for theaters.

I arrived on the set as the crew was returning from lunch. It looked much the same as the TV layout, except that the sets were bigger and there were more people on the set. First I spotted jolly Ben Alexander, the reliable Frank Smith of the series. His face was bruised.

"It's just makeup," he said. "One of the hoods in the picture roughed us up. He's dead now."

I asked Alexander how the setup had changed for the theatrical movie.

"In a lot of ways it's the same," he remarked. "The only difference is that it takes much longer, since we're shooting in color. We need many more lights, and it takes a lot of time to get a set lighted.

"We don't expect to move so fast. After all, in the TV films—at least the ones I write—I try to write in only three sets. In this picture, we'll have 51 sets!"

Soon Webb, also bruised, appeared with his writer, Richard Breen. They both started in radio in San Francisco with a memorable private-eye show called "Pat Novak for Hire." With them were two noted directors, Delmar Daves and Mervyn Leroy. I also learned that Billy Wilder and George Stevens had visited the set. I couldn't determine whether all these directors were being helpful to a new member of their craft or were merely curious TV fans.

Webb is directing the film, as he does the TV series. That is no easy matter, since he appears in every scene.

When he finished with his visitors, he came over to chat. His conversation is like that of Joe Friday — crisp and full of facts.

I asked him if there were any surprises in his debut as a director of a full-length feature.

"Only in the speed of the crew," he replied. "I knew they were good, but I didn't think they would be able to keep up the kind of pace we maintain in TV. I've got 24 days to finish the picture, but I hope to bring it in at 18."

He explained that the movie script, like those in TV, was taken from an actual case. It concerns a gangland killing, but is not a whodunit.

"The first third of the picture concerns the how and who of the killing," he said. "The rest of the picture tells how the facts were gathered to present to the courts. This time we will show a division of the police department we have never treated before. It's the intelligence division, which gathers material on a criminal from all departments of the force."

Crossroads Comment by G.H.S.

There are some things that cannot wait for delayed attention, like changing a baby's diaper. The baby's going to be sore if mother puts off the change until the housework's done.

The same might go for street repairs. There are some conditions that need immediate attention whether it is winter, fall, spring or summer. There may be economy in waiting to have all the holes repaired at one time, but extreme cases arise calling for temporary repairs until permanent ones can be effected.

A case in point is the east lane of State Fair boulevard between Fifth and Sixth streets. A section of black top looks like it's full of bomb holes; a definite motoring hazard especially at night time. It's not good for tires and may cause a serious accident. Traffic is already going off the road to get around the holes.

If it's absolutely impossible to give the spot temporary repairs this week, then the city, the twelve mile road district or the county—just anybody who feels a sense of responsibility ought to erect some temporary warning signs. If I had some red underwear I'd go out there and hang the garment on a stick, if nothing else.
